Raging Forest Fires Defy Efforts At Control

Ravaging thousands of acres of timberland, forest fires in British Columbia have caused untold damage in the past week. A 2,000-acre conflagration in the vicinity of the Elk River Timber Company operations at Campbell River was still raging out of control today. Moresby Island blaze, finally choked off by fire fighters, has destroyed 6,000,000 feet of timber. Typical of difficult terrain faced by fire fighters is the Sayward fire, above, photographed from the air by Percy Young of the B.C. Forest Service.

No Compromise In Sight As Pumping Of Iran Oil Stops

Plans Made To Evacuate Staff; No U.S. Intervention

From CP and UP Dispatches

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. halted crude oil pumping of southern Iran's largest field because of a company decision to withdraw its tankers, British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd announced today, and made plans to fly its British staff out of Iran.

The last plane-loads of women and children left for their British homes this morning.

Attlee, Churchill To Confer

Unless a last-minute compromise is reached, an emergency evacuation of British employees themselves will mark the beginning of the end of the billion-dollar oil empire Britain built over the last 50 years in Iran.

In Washington State Secretary Dean Acheson said there is "no thought" of United States' intervention in the Iranian oil crisis.

Appearing before the house of representatives foreign affairs committee, Acheson said, however, "we cannot exaggerate the critical nature of the situation and we cannot exaggerate the importance of its solution."

At London Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Winston Churchill decided to hold an urgent conference on the Iranian crisis. The meeting was requested by Churchill and welcomed by Attlee.

Production at the Aghajari Fields, about 100 miles northeast of Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, has been stopped because there is no more loading at the deep-sea port of Bandur Mashur.

Italian Oil Expert Called In

Meanwhile, it was learned an Italian oil expert, Dr. Mario Caraffa, arrived here secretly a few days ago at the invitation of the Iranian government. He is vice-president of Agip, Italy's national gasoline company, in which Anglo-Iranian has substantial interests.

Shepherd estimated that production at the Abadan refinery, which is fed by six other oil fields in southern Iran, could continue another 10 to 14 days before storage facilities were all used up.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh is reported preparing to summon a special cabinet meeting to discuss latest developments in his drive to nationalize the British-controlled company's holdings. Iranian leaders, already alarmed over the news that Britain has ordered her cruiser Mauritius to Abadan, were little soothed by the reports that British personnel — totalling about 3,000—would be evacuated soon and the Abadan refinery shut down.

Shepherd said he assumed the cruiser Mauritius already had arrived off Abadan. He said the big ship would anchor in the Shattel-Arab River in Iraqui waters, only 200 or so yards from the refinery on Iranian soil. He said the cruiser was being stationed in the river to protect British property in the event of disorders.

"I am sure the Persian government is taking all precautions to preserve order," Shepherd said to reporters, "but obviously it is the duty of His Majesty's government to take all precautions, also."

Observers said Iran probably would protest to the British against the presence of the cruiser, even though it stays in Iraqui waters. The boundary between Iran and Iraq runs in the centre of a deep channel roughly in the middle of the 500-yard-wide river.

Shepherd said no definite decision has been made yet to evacuate the Britons from Abadan, although Iranian measures might make it necessary.

The Anglo-Iranian Company has ordered all its tankers to withdraw from the Abadan refinery port immediately—presumably to avoid being involved in any trouble. Ten of the 27 tankers reported at the port were loaded. Skippers were instructed to dump their oil cargoes, if need be, in order to get Iranian clearance papers.

The Mossadegh government has demanded that the British sign receipts for all oil cargoes clearing the port to show that fuel is the property of the Iranian National Oil Company. The British captains so far have refused to sign such receipts.

Matin Daftari, Mossadegh's son-in-law and chairman of the parliamentary oil nationalization sub-committee in Abadan, said even mass withdrawals of British technicians would be looked on as sabotage.

There was considerable speculation over the departure from Abadan Monday of A.I.O.C. general manager Eric Drake to Basra in nearby Iraq.

In Basra, Drake said he left Iran on the advice of Ambassador Shepherd after a stormy meeting with Iranian nationalization officials. He is expected to leave for London by air tomorrow.

He termed Iran's charges of sabotage "trumped up" and said he had asked the Iranians to withdraw the sabotage charges at a meeting of the Iranian temporary board of directors and the mixed parliamentary commission but they refused.

He said in a message to the British staff remaining in Iran:

"Our policy is to carry on our business as long as we are allowed to do so. We must stand firm regardless of provocations and insults until the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company management indicate to the contrary."

Drake's assistant in Abadan, Alec Mason, denied Drake's trip had anything to do with arrangements for British evacuation from Iran. The quickest way out of the country is into Iraq with which Britain has close ties.

Closure Looms; Island Fire Out Of Control

Sailors Helping In Charlottes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Complete closure of British Columbia woodlands may become necessary if dry weather continues, District Forester E. W. Bassett said today.

The island's biggest forest fire on operations of Elk River Timber Company, Ltd., at Campbell River was still ragng out of control this afternoon and spread over 2,000 acres as desperate B.C. Forest Service officials continued to conscript civilians to aid loggers and Forest Service men in fighting.

Woods operations in the Vancouver forest district, which takes in Vancouver Island, already have been ordered closed from 1 p.m. until sundown.

Meanwhile, naval authorities here reported today that a number of men and an officer have been landed from Esquimalt based H.M.C.S. Ontario to assist in fighting another forest fire in the Skidegate Lake district of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The naval force, believed numbering a dozen, took portable pumps and other fire equipment with them. The Ontario, which is on a training cruise, had been standing by should its help be required.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Forestry oficials said the Charlotte fire, in Sitka spruce stands on Moresby Island, is now believed under control. Three hundred loggers were fighting it at its peak earlier this week. It has destroyed 6,000,000 board feet of logs and a donkey engine in rampaging over 6,000 acres.

The noon forest service report said some 300 loggers are fighting the Camp River district fire, aided by more than 50 forest service men and 30 or more conscripts.

The blaze is still threatening thousands of acres of logged-over land on which reforestation has been carried out.

In addition to the small army of forest fighters, 10 bulldozers are being used to cut fire guards in efforts to halt the jumping flames.

Fire hazard in the coastal region remains critical, the forest service said. There were several new fires reported but none of a serious nature. Interior of the province is escaping fires of a serious nature, it was stated.

LIQUOR, WINE PRICE BOOST NEXT TUESDAY

The price of hard liquor and wines in B.C. will be higher next Tuesday.

Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy announced today stocks of spirits bought before the federal sales tax was increased from 8 to 10 per cent have been exhausted.

Result is that reputed quarts of all hard liquor will cost 10 cents more, "mickeys" will be five cents higher and all bottles of wines will cost five cents more, except 10-gallon "jugs" which will be 10 cents higher.

Medals For 3 Canadians In Korea Fighting

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian officer who called artillery fire down on his own position when Chinese swarmed into them was awarded the Military Cross today for "bravery and conduct above normal devotion to duty."

Capt. John Gramas Wallace Mills, 31, of Winnipeg, thus joined two other ranks—one evacuated from London as a boy during the blitz—as the first Canadian soldiers to be decorated for gallantry in the Korean campaign.

The others, both awarded the Military Medal:

L.-Cpl. Smiley Douglas, 23, of R.R. No. 1, Delburne and Red Deer, Alta., who lost a hand in grabbing a smoking grenade which exploded. His action was credited with saving two lives.

Pte. Leonard Barton, 21, formerly of Paddington, England, who was wounded three times and whose "extraordinary" gallantry helped gain and hold a position when the fight seemed lost.

All three men were with the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, at the time. Capt. Mills still is with the unit. The two others are in hospital in Canada recovering from their wounds, Douglas at Calgary, Barton in Toronto.

CHICKADEES MAKE CUCKOOS OUT OF FANS

Mrs. Chicakdee, whose nest is in a tree overhanging the bleachers, chose the twilight hour to teach her youngsters to fly.

The fledglings soloed trustingly from one baseball fan to another, alighting on heads and shoulders throughout the game.

West Asking Moscow What Malik's Suggestion Meant

Acheson Says Chinese Withdrawal Beyond Yalu Would Be Acceptable

Acting on Washington's instruction, United States Ambassador Alan G. Kirk called on Andrei Gromyko, Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister in Moscow. Moscow dispatches said clarification of Malik's suggestions was expected by the end of this week.

State Secretary Dean Acheson said the U.S. had not learned the intentions behind the Malik proposal, "but we hope today will bring further light." At the time he made this comment in Washington, Acheson evidently had not received Kirk's report on his meeting with Gromyko.

In Washington questions from members of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee Mr. Acheson said the best guarantee for U.S. acceptance of a Korean cease-fire would be withdrawal of Chinese Communist troops beyond the Yalu River.

Before the committee for a discussion of the administration's foreign aid program, he proposed a "phased withdrawal" of all foreign troops after an armistice.

MALIK REFUSES TO ELABORATE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (Reuters) — Jacob Malik, chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, said today his speech Saturday containing a Korean truce proposal "speaks for itself."

Questioned by telephone, the Soviet delegate declined to go into any details on the next moves to be made to end the Korean war.

Who Are 'Belligerents'?

Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, proposed Saturday that the belligerents in Korea open talks about a cease-fire coupled with mutual withdrawal of forces from the 38th Parallel. The West wants to know, among other things, what "belligerents" the Soviet Union considered to be involved, and what guarantees would be given against reopening of the fighting if a truce were declared.

U.N. Secretary General Trygve Lie, "always hopeful," returned from Norway. He discussed developments with his chief aides and Nasrollah Entezam, General Assembly President.

Entezam said he had not seen Malik—reported ill since Saturday—and had no engagement to see him. He talked today with the ranking Russian in the U.N. Secretariat, Constantin Zinchenko.

One informant who in the past has been somewhat familiar with Russian thinking expressed belief the Russians, in their mention of "belligerents," had in mind the North Koreans and the unified command of the U.N.

This would leave out the Chinese Communists, who Moscow portrays as volunteers in Korea. Such an omission could raise immediate objection from the west.

Malik is scheduled to make an appearance tomorrow night at a dinner he has arranged as retiring President of the Security Council. The council presidency rotates monthly, and the dinner is a usual formality marking the change in presidencies.

WOULD HOIST RULING ON RED CHINA IN U.N.

LONDON (UP)—Foreign Secretary Morrison recommended today an indefinite postponement of a United Nations decision on whether to admit Communist China as a member.

In one of the bluntest statements to date on Britain's attitude toward China, Morrison said a delay was advisable because of Red China's "persistent behavior" in violation of the U.N. charter. The government, however, believed Communist delegates should represent China in the U.N., he added.

Cook Slain; Ship Detained At Ocean Falls

Sidney Ferguson, 40-year-old cook from Panama, staggered out of the galley of the freighter Washington Tuesday, his chest torn by an eight-inch knife. He died minutes later on the deck.

The first cook, Winfred Stansill Young, 43, of Tacoma, said by crew members to have been quarreling with Ferguson, was arrested and remanded to July 28 for preliminary hearing.

The Washington, loading paper at this community 73 miles upcoast from Vancouver, was scheduled to sail today. Japan is her destination. It was not known how long the vessel would be kept in port.

R.C.M.P. said Young—father of three children—told them that after arguing for some time Ferguson attacked him with a pot.

150 Tenants Flee Blaze In Apartment

VANCOUVER (UP).—A fire in the basement of a large apartment house forced evacuation of 150 tenants here today, and the owner of the building suffered burns of the right hand.

The blaze broke out in a pile of bedding in the basement of the Blenheim Court apartments and did about $3,000 damage before firemen struck it out.

Ewan McLennan, about 80, was trapped in the basement by the dense smoke, but made his own way outside. Firemen applied artificial respiration and he was taken to Vancouver General Hospital for treatment of his burned hand. Attendants say he is in good condition.

Whatshan Wheels Turn Tomorrow

Government officials as well as business leaders are on their way to Vernon today en route to the official opening of the B.C. Power Commission's $5,500,000 Whatshan power plant.

Tomorrow Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney will throw the switch putting the 30,000 horse power plant into operation.

The latest hydro development of the power commission has two 16,500 h.p. turbines to supply electricity to Lower Arrow Lake communities and cities, settlements, mills and farms 200 miles to the west.

Opening of the plant will mark the end of a construction project started in September, 1948, following engineering surveys undertaken in 1945.

COMMONS TO MEET OCT. 9

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today adopted a resolution to adjourn the current session — expected to finish business tomorrow or Friday —until Oct. 9.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told questioners that the reconvening date — usually a provisional one — is a "firm date" in this case unless developments necessitate an earlier recall of members.

Fresh Red Troops Seek To Crack Allied Lines

TOKYO (AP)—Communists began pulling out of one build-up area in Korea today but poured fresh men and supplies into another centre for a new try at cracking Allied lines. United Nations officers were not worried.

"They can hit us anywhere, at any time, in any strength," a U.N. briefing officer said.

Other officers predicted Chinese Reds would strike in the second week of July — probably down the Uijongbu-Seoul invasion corridor.

Chinese dug in even on the flat lands south of Pyonggang to protect their major build-up, north of the former iron triangle. This is the area into which Chinese commanders were reported pouring new men and materials.

East of the iron triangle Reds began hauling supplies out of a secondary built-up area near Kumsong. A four-mile Allied advance Tuesday endangered the Reds' Kumsong area.

STRING FORCE

Fifth Air Force pilots supporting ground troops with fire bombs and rockets reported they killed or wounded about 600 Reds. Most of the casualties were inflicted in the Kumsong area by two F-51 Mustang strikes.

A dispatch from Canadian Press correspondent Bill Boss said at least 75 Chinese were killed and four field artillery pieces knocked out north of Chorwon by U.N. planes supporting United Nations ground troops.

STEP UP RAIDS

Far East air forces stepped up bomber raids on Red air fields in western Korea. Twelve fields were cratered Tuesday, and five more during the night.

One U.S. F-80 Shooting Star was shot down by ground fire while strafing Red troops.

Fishermen Vote

VANCOUVER (CP) — United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (T.L.C.) will vote Thursday and Friday on a new price offer from the salmon canners' operating committee.

The companies made the offer in a final effort to avert a strike by 3,000 union members July 1. Details of the offer were not released.

158,912 In Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton's population increased by 10,051 during the last year to reach 158,912, this year's civic census shows.

Including the suburbs of Beverly and Jasper Place, the population of greater Edmonton is more than 170,000.

More Snow Falls

EDMONTON (CP)—Flakes of snow mixed with rain fell in Saskatoon and North Battleford today, the public weather office in Edmonton reported.

The public forecaster said a cold air mass spreading eastward across the prairies also brought sharply-lower temperatures to some parts of Saskatchewan.

In Saskatoon, a high of 55 had been forecast for the day. But, instead of rising, the temperature went down from 43.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

CASTLES CONTINUED)

COPENHAGEN.—Today we drove out to North Zealand, through country lovely with great beech woods and lush farms—on one of whose barn roofs we were delighted to see a stork standing in its nest—past quaint old wooden windmills to Hillerod, whose main attraction is the superb Frederiksborg Castle.

Needless to say it, too, was built by King Christian the Fourth. Erected about 1602 to 1620, it is of red brick of that rich, warm shade so common in Denmark, and stands on three small islands at the side of a beautiful lake. One very interesting thing about it is that it was gutted by fire in 1859, which left only the outer walls. Its restoration was made possible by the generosity of J. C. Jabosen, founder of the Carlsberg Breweries, who left sufficient funds in his will to help maintain it—a novel outlet for beer profits!

BALL FOR ROOSEVELT

THE CASTLE is now devoted to the housing of the National Historical Museum, and the only time it has been used for state purposes in the last 100 years was when a banquet was given to U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt in the Knights' Hall.

But any other castle we have seen here pales into insignificance besides the splendor of Frederiksborg. The great reception hall, for instance, is an immense apartment, the floor tiled in marble in a most elaborate pattern, while the ceiling is just something out of this world. Every inch of it is deeply carved in most intricate designs, with scenes and figures of typical Danish life, the whole thing painted in exquisite colors.

MARVELOUS TAPESTRIES

THE WALLS are covered all over with magnificent tapestries, specially woven by skilled Danish needlewomen nearly a century ago. The balcony designed to hold an orchestra, is of black marble, supported on three massive marble pillars, each of which, together with the balcony itself, is inlaid with solid silver friezes and ornamentation.

Space does not permit my going into detail about Frederiksborg, but I wish my readers could have seen the church within its walls. This, too, is a masterpiece of the woodcarver's art, with walls, ceiling, pews, organ-loft and all the pillars supporting the roof and balcony being elaborately carved, ornamented in purest golf leaf and painted in bright blues, scarlets and yellows, which are still as fresh as the day they were put on. The altar and pulpit are of black marble inlaid with solid silver.

ROYAL RESIDENCE

FROM Frederiksborg, we drove to Fredensborg Castle, again ideally situated in rolling, lovely country, overlooking a large lake. This is the summer home of King Frederik—whom we had seen a few weeks ago at the Garter ceremony at Windsor—and as he and the queen are at present in residence, we could not enter the castle, which was built in 1720-22.

But we were able to stroll about the beautiful park, with its long avenue of ancient lindens that have been cut and trained for years to permit distant vistas of palace and lake. Here, too, as everywhere in Denmark, the lilacs and laburnums reach amazing size and profusion, while a great mass of rhododendrons in various colors was breath-taking.

ANCIENT KRONBERG

IN striking contrast to the magnificence of Frederiksborg was the austere interior of Kronberg Castle, in the ancient little town of Elsinore, which we reached at the end of our drive. Incidentally, Elsinore stands right opposite Halsingborg, in Sweden, which is very clearly to be seen only three miles across the narrow strait known as the Kattegat.

Kronberg is one of Europe's finest Renaissance castles. It was built in 1585 by Frederik the Second, father of the busy Christian the Fourth, to guard the approach to the Baltic and make sure that all passing ships paid Sound dues. It has three wide moats, and its ancient walls are full of the fortifications which made it impregnable in those days.

HAMLET'S HOME

BUT the chief charm about Kronberg is that it was the reputed home of that melancholy Dane, Hamlet. And on our arrival the courtyard was being prepared for the annual Hamlet Festival which takes place later this month. Incidentally, a tablet marks the place on the ramparts where the legendary Hamlet met his father's ghost.

Inside, the palace is very bare, having been used as a barracks for years. But, as you walk through its ancient halls, with their 14-foot thick walls, and down its steep, winding outside staircase, you are acutely conscious of its medieval atmosphere. And I, for one, would not have been at all surprised to have found the ghost of Hamlet awaiting us at any turn.

And Nothing Can Be Done About It :— BY H. T. WEBSTER

Fact-Finding Inquiry Asked On Buttle Lake

An appeal to the B.C. government to conduct an intensive, fact-finding inquiry on the subject of the proposed damming of scenic Buttle Lake is being made today by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group, following a session Wednesday.

Public hearings will be held in August by the B.C. Power Commission.

Arguments in support of the conservationists' stand on the matter were advanced by Sam Lane, a post-war immigrant to this country from United Kingdom, at Wednesday's meeting of the tourist group.

Mr. Lane, who recently visited the lake, asked that immediate steps be taken to save the lake from being "spoiled" to produce cheap power.

He told of having seen unrestricted industry in England ruining country areas, and charged that industrialists in the U.S. had virtually ravaged areas there, too.

Mr. Lane argued that the beauty of the lake, as it now stands, should be preserved "not only for future British Columbians but for people from all over the continent."

"Right now," he declared, "we're only touching the fringe of a gigantic business. People to the south—millions of them—are looking for natural beauty, a place of peace and quiet and charm. We have that very thing right here."

SICK OF HONEY, BEES BELIEVE BOOZE BETTER

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Bees don't want to putter around making honey any more—theyr'e trying to get into the whisky business.

Last week a huge swarm of bees tried to take over the Hiram Walker distillery here. They buzzed into a new building under construction and started to make a hive. They were finally scraped into a box and deposited outside.

A new swarm entered the building Wednesday and started another colony. Again they were scraped into the box.

Four Traffic Mishaps Here

Damage was light and there were no casualties in four minor traffic accidents reported to police Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

At 7.05 p.m., George Faet, Cowichan Bay, and L. E. Asselstine, 2161 Florence Street, collided on Government Street. Two hours later James Simpson, Wilkinson Road, and Mervin A. Smith, North Battleford, collided at Johnson and Government Streets, and at 9.30 p.m. a car driven by W. C. Hitchcock, 613 Superior Street, was hit by Alfred A. Duplain, 331 Huntington Place, while leaving a Fort Street curb.

At 1.45 a.m. today a car driven west on Niagara Street by Peter L. Thorburn, 270 Beechwood Avenue, hit a telephone pole while turning on to Government Street.

Three Killed By Kansas Tornado

WAKEENEY, Kas. (AP) — A tornado ripped through a residential area of this Western Kansas town of 2,000 early today, killing three persons and injuring an estimated 50. The winds, accompanied by a five-inch rain, leveled homes, uprooted trees and ripped down power and communication lines. Winds and heavy rain swept across a wide section of Central and Western Kansas Tuesday night and early today.

Crows have been known to fly as high as 6,000 feet.

Students Finding Many Summer Jobs

Employment Opportunity 'Best Ever,' Says N.E.S.

Employment prospects for high school graduates are bright, National Employment Service officials said today.

"There are quite a few students registering and a fair number of them are being placed," Charles A. Mudge, N.E.S. manager, declared.

Some students are looking for permanent jobs while others are searching for summer employment. Wage prospects for students are also good. They will draw the current labor wage and on the whole this figure is up over last summer.

"We could place still more students," Mr. Mudge said. "Of course, we haven't got the full picture yet. Sschool doesn't officially end until today."

At Victoria High School a commercial and vocational guidance teacher said he has placed all the girls in the graduating class who were looking for permanent employment. Boys who are looking for a permanent job are not all placed but Mr. Haywood explains some are waiting to get into an apprenticeship in order to learn a skilled trade.

"Conditions have never been so good for obtaining steady work," he said.

As for getting summer employment the boys are in a better position than the girls, Mr. Haywood thought.

"There is no shortage of jobs but some of those offered are not the type wanted," he said. "Some of them don't want to leave the city to work."

At Oak Bay High school, vocational councillor also said his students were having no trouble finding jobs for the summer.

"Most of our boys are finding jobs," he said. "None of them are searching for permanent employment. Those who are leaving school have already got jobs in banks or some such place. Over ninety per cent of them go on to college. As for the girls, most of them are either going to college or into nursing."

Birds possess both the keenest and farthest-sighted vision.

Families Still Coming

British Columbia attracted more families from other parts of the Dominion in June than it sent to other provinces, according to W. R. Bone, regional director of Family Allowances.

During the month 477 families receiving allowances came to this province while 434 left. The prairie provinces contributed the bulk of the newcomers.

Ontario reversed the general trend, welcoming 106 B.C. families while only 84 families came here.

Allowances paid in June on behalf of 316,794 children in 162,010 families totaled $1,890,752, Mr. Bone said.

Gordon Thomas and George Thomas, Indians of Westholme Reserve, were each fined $50 Tuesday in provincial court for being in possession of intoxicants.

FIRE BURNS TWELVE HOURS

Victoria home owners have found that they can now enjoy a steady heat that will last for 12 hours with one firing of Gasco Briquets in their furnace, heater or fireplace. They are getting more heat for their dollar than ever before, and no ashes to carry out ever.

This scientific man-made fuel seems to end most of the trouble of running up and down stairs to attend the furnace.

With the new Gasco furnace plate laid on top of present grates a briquet fire can be built to last as long as 20 hours. However, most home owners are content to fire twice a day. With 15 or 20 lbs. of Gasco Briquets fired twice a day in the average five or six-roomed home the temperature can be held within three degrees night or day.

New 'Tiddley Whites' For Navy

Drew's 'Smear' Of Howe Sparks Fight

Angry Words In House On Radio Talk About Howe Co.'s Contracts

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today in the Commons accused George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, of using "smear" tactics designed to reflect on the reputation of Production Minister Howe.

The flare-up, which brought charges and counter charges, cat-calls and roars of applause, was sparked by a reference by Mr. Drew to Mr. Howe and government contracts in a free-time political speech over CBR last night.

Mr. Drew had charged that Mr. Howe "has arranged government contracts with his own family company, C. D. Howe Company Limited, which will give that company more than $500,000 in fees."

Rev. Dan McIvor (L., Fort William, Ont.) asked Mr. Drew to withdraw the charge. He said that Mr. Howe was not in the chamber and added that the minister has no connection with the company.

While Speaker Ross Macdonald pondered whether he should allow a debate on the matter, Mr. Drew stated he would not withdraw the charge. Mr. Howe, he said, with his "immense power," had granted the C. D. Howe Company a $30,000,000 contract to build an atomic reactor at Chalk River, Ont.

Son, Son-In-Law In Firm

While he himself was not personally connected with the company, his son and son-in-law were and that made it a "family company." It was the obligation of members of the government to see that no contracts were issued either to themselves or members of their family.

Mr. St. Laurent said that if the leader of the Opposition had any charges against a member of the government, he should make them in the House. The "smearing remark" against Mr. Howe would bring Mr. Drew no good results.

At this point, the two party leaders were on their feet, glaring across the aisle at each other, while the Progressive Conservatives tried to match the Liberals in cat-calls and desk-pounding.

As the uproar continued, Mr. Drew said Mr. St. Laurent has "obviously lost his temper." He would leave it to members to judge whether the use of the word "smearing" was parliamentary or not.

Mr. St. Laurent had suggested that if there were any charges against a member of the government they should be made in the chamber so that they could be referred to a special committee or the public accounts committee. Mr. Drew said a Royal Commission was required.

Too often, the public accounts committee was a means used by the government to dispense with anything the government did not really want to have examined.

Severed Connection, 1935

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Howe had already made clear that he had severed his connections with this Fort William, Ont., company when he entered politics in 1935. Yet there still were attempts to "smear" the production minister.

Mr. Howe's devotion to the country was as high as any member in the House, Mr. St. Laurent added. He recalled that Mr. Drew at one time previously had referred even to fees received by the Prime Minister when he was a member of a firm of Quebec lawyers.

Standing tensely at his desk Mr. St. Laurent said sharply that it was "quite unnecessary" for Mr. Drew to have made this remark. The fees received by the law firm were made before Mr. St. Laurent had been elected to Parliament 11 years ago.

Mr. Drew said Mr. Howe was charged with the handling of "hundreds of millions of dollars" in defence contracts, and his method of awarding these contracts therefore must be examined with great care.

When Mr. Howe had awarded a $30,000,000 Chalk River contract to the C. D. Howe Company, he did so fully aware that his son and son-in-law would "benefit."

LOST CYANIDE ENOUGH TO KILL MILLION

GENEVA, O. (AP)A barrel full of enough deadly poison to kill 1,000,000 persons was the object of a search here today.

The container of sodium cyanide, a chemical used in metal plating, was one of two which apparently bounced off an Indiana-bound truck on a curve one-half mile east of here. It was clearly marked: "Poison."

The highway patrol issued a warning that even breathing fumes from the barrel could cause death.

Vancouver Agrees With Phone Boost

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver will not oppose B.C. Telephone Company's application next week for an interim increase in phone rates.

City council accepted a company offer Wednesday night to confine the increase application to $1,800,000 in additional annual revenues instead of the $2,200,000 the company had intended to ask.

The city, however, will fight the total permanent increase of $2,200,000 for which the company will apply to the Federal Board of Transport Commissioners in the fall.

The temporary increase, which will be sought in Ottawa July 3, would mean an average increase of 9.6 per cent in phone rates instead of 11.7 per cent the company originally sought and will seek in the fall.

Piloting Of Big Planes Strike Issue

CHICAGO (AP) — The strike by 900 A.F.L. pilots against the United Air Lines moved into its ninth day today.

The company and the A.F.L. Air Line Pilots' Association submitted their side of the strike to President Truman, who earlier had urged the pilots "as good Americans" to end the walkout.

The company said it would resume service under conditions existing at the time of the strike, June 19, if the controversy over piloting the DC-6B planes is settled ahead of other issues in dispute.

The union balked at the proposal. It said it was willing to include the DC-6B issue "as one of the unsettled issues in this dispute."

Strike Settlement Ends U.S. Shipping Tie-Up

NEW YORK (AP)—All American-flag ships returned to the seas today after 11 days of labor disputes. At one time, non-defense shipping was tied up in every major port in the U.S.

The C.I.O. National Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association won contract concessions from 40 Atlantic and gulf coast shipowners Tuesday night to mark the complete restoration of maritime labor peace.

West coast ships started moving last Friday after the C.I.O. American Radio Association settled a six-day strike with Pacific ship operators.

Some east and gulf coast vessels sailed during the last two days following week-end agreements with the owners and the radiomen's union and the 52,000-member National Maritime Union (C.I.O.).

The marine engineers won their most important demand, that all engineers below the rank of first assistant be hired through union hiring halls. Ship operators had resisted this demand for years.

Awards To 3 Canadian Pats Approved By King

By Canadian Press

Awards of Military Cross to Capt. John Graham Wallace Mills, 31, Winnipeg, and Military Medals to L.Cpl. Smiley Douglas, 23, Delburne and Red Deer, Alta., and Pte. Leonard Barton, 21, formerly of Paddington, Eng., all members of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, announced today from Ottawa were recommended by senior officers in Korea and approved by the King.

Capt. Mills and L.Cpl. Douglas were honored for bravery during the action around Chunchon April 24-25, the action for which the entire P.P.C.L.I. Regiment won a presidential citation from the U.S. Tuesday. The Barton story dates back to an action around Yangdogwon March 7.

FIRST WAR VETERAN

Capt. Mills, an overseas veteran of the First World War and manager of the Frosted Food Centre in Winnipeg before re-enlisting, was acting commander of "D" Company when the Chinese, trying to exploit a dangerous breakthrough, struck hard at his positions at the height of their spring offensive.

More than 100 Chinese were killed by the Patricias of that company and by the artillery of three regiments which Capt. Mills deliberately called down on his own position and kept coming for two hours. The Patricias' casualties were light.

Capt. Mills, recently presented with his ribbon before the entire battalion in Korea, still is second-in-command of "D" Company. He is a native of Hartney, Man., and his wife and five-year-old daughter, Heather Dawn, live at 1408 James Wood Place, Winnipeg.

His citation goes on: "Two men were close to another grenade which had been tripped—its mechanism set in motion—and was smoking. L.Cpl. Douglas yelled to them to lie down, rushed forward and grabbed the grenade in an attempt to throw it away. It exploded, blowing his hand off . . . he undoubtedly saved the lives of the two men."

He was born at Red Deer, Alta., and went to school near the family farm at Delburne. He worked on his mother's farm and occasionally drove tractors for construction companies before enlisting in the Special Force last summer.

Pte. Barton, 10 years old when the Germans were bombing London, came to Canada last year and worked as a farmhand in Ontario before enlisting. On March 7 his company was attacking a hill, got held up by vicious fire and orders were given to assault with bayonets.

Pte. Barton was batman for the lieutenant commanding his platoon. In the attack, the lieutenant and others were wounded. So was Barton. But, "showing great initiative and resource, he rallied the remainder and carried on.

"He was next shot through the leg when leaping over a trench, but immediately turned and killed the man who had shot him. Pushing ahead, he was wounded a third time by machine-gun fire but carried on until ordered out. He walked back to medical aid unassisted. The position was consolidated the following morning . . ."

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Crucifixion was a form of capital punishment inflicted by the Romans only on sla es and criminals of the lowest class, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Demonstration Of New British Rifle

LONDON (Reuters) — Commonwealth defense ministers and their military advisers today saw a demonstration of the Br.tish army's controversial new .280-calibre rifle.

It has been criticized on the grounds that its adoption hampers efforts to standardize weapons among North Atlantic pact countries.

The United States and Canada have decided against adopting the new weapon.

MISSION (CP)—Fire at Mission Sawmills leveled the main plant early today. Loss was believed to be $150,000.

STUART KEATE, Publisher — BRUCE HUTCHISON, Editor

The Dead End

MR. G. D. H. COLE, THE EMINENT philosopher of British socialism, is the intellectual hero of socialists everywhere. His clarion call to a socialist Utopia after the war was eagerly read and reiterated by the C.C.F. in Canada and here in British Columbia. It is to be hoped that the local socialists also are reading Mr. Cole's new confession of bitter disillusionment.

His soul-searching, admirable in its candor and courage, is exhibited in the pages of The New Statesman and Nation, organ of the British Labor Party's left wing. He asks—and the very question is a clear intimation of failure—whether socialism shall fail.

Socialism, says Mr. Cole, builds a new society without the revolutionary methods of communism. It achieves reform without smashing the whole social structure. But, he asks bluntly, "is the result socialism or even an approach to it?"

Considering the experience of Britain, the only European state which pretends to real socialism, Mr. Cole finds the result pretty disappointing. The class structure remains little changed and "there is no unloosing of new enthusiasms among the common people and no rapid emergence of a new leadership." For all its achievements socialism "has failed so far to stimulate the will to serve without which these achievements are bound to remain precarious." And Mr. Cole admits that socialism is unable to make progress in most countries. "Since 1945 its influence has grown weaker over most of western Europe."

Why this failure of great hopes? Why does Utopia stubbornly refuse to dawn? Mr. Cole's answer is frank: "Socialism is an unworkable system without a new social drive such as the communists have managed to give it in Russia and in China—and in Yugoslavia."

Since communism is impossible in Britain, where is the drive to be found, the social principle, the new incentive to replace the rewards which drive private enterprise? That assuredly is the dilemma and always has been. Socialism, as Stephen Leacock once said, would succeed without question in a society of angels but among human beings it does not work as sincere socialists intend. It works in the end only by the dictatorship of the state, replacing the rewards of the market, and then it ceases to be socialism as democratic socialists understand it.

Hence, Mr. Cole admits, socialism in Britain has achieved some nationalized industries but their administration is "unsatisfactory because it generates no enthusiasm anywhere. A bad cross between bureaucracy and big business, it gives the worker no sense that the responsibility for high output at low cost now rests on him. It gives the consumer no sense of participation; it makes him feel that he is more than ever up against a vast, uncontrollable monopolistic machine."

Mr. Cole offers no escape from socialism's present dead end. All he can suggest is a fuzzy diffusion of power and responsibility, a stronger attack on private property, a more vigorous march toward a classless society and finally the abandonment of the "pretence of collective bargaining." The state should fix wages in agreement with the labor unions, which might then agree to piecework and other incentives, though they have always been damned as the diabolical invention of capitalism.

In plain English this means the surrender of the trade unions to the state. Assuredly it is not what the unions expected from socialism. Nor is the present socialist state what Mr. Cole expected in Britain or what the C.C.F. promises here.

All this bitter experience and disenchantment, while costly to Britain, should be highly profitable to us in Canada. Improving our own free enterprise system (which can stand a lot of improvement) we can avoid socialism's dead end.

The Greedy Maw

THE CANADIAN SENATE, TOO, heavy as it is with members from one political party, and obsolete as it is in its methods of appointment, still does good work, usually overlooked. The latest example is an economic study by a Senate committee under that veteran statesman and one of Canada's great public servants, Senator T. A. Crerar.

His committee has spent four months dissecting the economic anatomy of the nation and reports that one of the main causes of inflation is the insatiable appetite of all governments for money. By spending money, it is observed, governments go into the market and bid for goods and services against the consumer, thus pushing up prices. Drastic economy in all three wings of government therefore is needed as a primary weapon against inflation.

On the other side of the equation the Crerar committee urges an increase in the production of goods to satisfy the public's purchasing power. At the same time the public should save more, demanding less goods for the moment, and thus have money in hand to buy them when more are available after the demands of the defence program have been satisfied.

But, as the committee finds, Canada is not increasing its production per capita, as the United States is doing. Productivity here—the output of goods per man-hour on a per capita basis—has been standing still. This is one of the most alarming features of the present situation and all the more surprising after our huge investment in new labor-saving machinery.

For a century our productivity increased rapidly. It has stopped increasing mainly because we have traded leisure for goods. Shorter working hours have not reduced total output but they have prevented the normal increase. Until machinery is still further improved, a long process, we cannot have it both ways—we cannot have less work and more goods.

The Crerar committee, observes also that the Canadian people's rate of savings has been declining. Instead of saving their money as in the past they have been spending it on goods and thus helping to raise prices. Here a vicious and familiar circle can be observed. Reduced saving, among other things, presses up prices. High prices leave little money for saving.

A country which is investing on a gigantic scale in the development of its resources must save money for the purpose, must hold down its consumption so that materials, manpower and machinery can go into new factories and other developments which will pay off in goods for the consumer, in a higher living standard, later.

Otherwise the capital must be borrowed in other nations, increasing the nation's foreign debt, which must be repaid, together with interest, in foreign funds, mostly American, and at unknown exchange rates.

In sober language the Crerar committee concludes that government policy should have regard not only to the immediate hardships of high prices but to the long-run disaster of an inflation turning inevitably into a depresstion and bringing "serious and grave hardships to hundreds of thousands of our people." Governments, it adds, are increasing their expenditures faster than the total increase in wealth needed to pay them. Mr. Anscomb is never tired of telling us this in British Columbia and unquestionably he is right. But he, other finance ministers and city treasurers throughout the nation are doing little about it.

The Bath Tub Standard

AMERICA'S HIGH LIVING STANDard, as documented by economists, is a pretty vague affair. The public gets lost in a maze of figures. It cannot grasp, even if it remembers, the United States' "gross product" of over $300 billions and Canada's $20 billions a year. But the thing becomes understandable when it is reduced to terms of automobiles, washing machines, bath tubs and other household gadgets.

Interpreting economics in layman's fashion, the United States News, of Washington, makes the following discoveries: Ten years ago 79 of every 100 American homes had electricity. Now 96 have it. Ten years ago 81 had radios as against 95 today. Running water has risen from 69 to 84; passenger cars from 72 to 82; electric refrigerators from 46 to 78; toilets from 65 to 77; baths from 61 to 74; telephones from 41 to 70; electrical washing machines from 44 to 65; television sets from none to 24.

Worth reading again, those figures. They may not startle a people used to present living standards but they are unique in all human history. No people ever lived like Americans before, and Canadians are only a little way behind them in life's physical improvement.

This does not necessarily mean, of course, that life itself, which has many aspects beyond the physical, has improved. Judged by other standards, moral for instance, it may not have improved at all. The business of an economic system, however, as distinguished from a moral or religious system, is solely to produce and distribute goods. The North American system, on this score, has succeeded far beyond any other system on record. Yet it is this economic system which communists, socialists and other reformers would change and it is this system which they blame for its failure to produce economic results. The North American system can be attacked on many grounds, moral and spiritual. Even as an economic system it is far from perfect (though it is being steadily improved) but, measured by practical results, it has no rival anywhere.

A Duty And A Pleasure

A CLEAR RECOGNITION OF THE fact that Reserve Army peactime training in Canada must be made attractive if it is to win volunteers is found in the program of the local 75th (B.C.) Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment. A far cry from the old days of dull drills and uninspired instruction, the unit now offers youths an interesting program of varied activities designed to create enthusiasm.

The one night a week parade and the occasional Sunday outing combine instruction with the things that appeal to youths—good food, to name but one. It is the plan of the unit at a later stage to organize a club which would be available to the men for any off-evening, with games, swimming, reading lounge and other attractions with a wide appeal.

That this approach to the recruiting problem shows results may be seen in the fact that the 75th H.A.A., although less than two years old, now claims the largest Reserve Force enrolment in the province. The members receive pay for each parade attended, and will shortly be offered full pay for a 60-day tour of training at Calgary.

The practicality of the work cannot be given too much emphasis. In case of war, the guns of this heavy anti-aircraft unit could conceivably be the first in Canada to fire in defense of our country. That is a responsibility that is impressed upon every recruit. It is a responsibility that should bring many new men into uniform as well.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE British, who like to pretend that they are inefficient, have put even the vagrant art of public speaking on a sound economic basis. Oratory no longer can be trusted to the inspiration of the moment (as the Scottish minister in the old tale observed when he plied his curate with whisky before his first sermon) but must be organized like any other industry. Hence the speech industry has now published a regular and authoritative organ prescribing the rules which every speaker and every audience should follow.

NOW I do not know the rules suitable to the British climate and the diet of British banquets but the Canadian rules, though unwritten, are well established and inflexible. The secretary of every club, society, guild, association and forum in the country has long since mastered them.

Hutchison

The first rule is to trap your speaker early when he isn't looking. He must be shot as a sitting duck before he can take flight. The wise secretary never telephones a speaker a day in advance of the meeting, when he will certainly be refused. He makes the date weeks and if possible months in advance. At that point the speaker is soft, unwary and easily trapped. A man will agree to do anything, even to make a speech, half a year ahead. He will expect the secretary to forget about it so he forgets about it himself. But secretaries never forget. Six months pass so quickly that almost the next day, so it seems, the secretary is phoning to remind the victim that the moment of execution has arrived.

SECONDLY, it is essential to make sure that the speaker never gets a chance to speak. Everybody is invited to speak but nobody really wants to hear him. It is all part of a grand gesture, a sort of ritual, a pleasant charade like the serving of tea in Japan or a political convention in the United States.

Hence the club which has invited the speaker will arrange an agenda which will effeetively throttle him. At least two hours of club business, together with solos by the local singers, a pep talk by some busybody who does no other work and probably a turn by an amateur ventriloquist, conjurer or acrobat, will precede the invited speaker.

IT is now about 11 o'clock at night, or 2 p.m., if the affair is a luncheon. Everybody is tired, fed up and anxious to get home. By the time the speaker rises with the notes for a full hour's speech before him he knows that he has 10 minutes at most. In any well-organized club half of that time will be taken by the president in introducing the honored guest and the other half by some noisesome and drooling fellow in thanking him for a speech which he could not deliver and which no one wants to hear. Thus everybody will be satisfied. The speaker will escape his speech, the local orators will have their chance of glory and the audience will go home to bed, which is the whole purpose of the affair anyway.

NEVERTHELESS, the speaker had better bring some sort of speech with him. Sometimes, when arrangements go wrong, he may have to utter a series of sounds, for as long as 10 minutes. The seasoned speaker has only one speech in his whole life, arranged in segments which can be rearranged, cut down or expanded as the occasion requires. Interminably, reshuffled like a deck of cards, it can always be made to look new and, with the help of a good reporter and a rewrite man in the newspaper office, can even be made to look almost rational.

NO one ever invites me to make a speech (which is a cause of bitter secret grief) but seasoned speakers tell me that they seldom have to use their single speech at all. There is no time for it. Provided they can tell the club that it is doing a great work for Canada, that democracy is wonderful, men brave and women beautiful that is all anyone wants to hear, and the less the better. And if the speaker wisely refuses to eat the banquet which is indigestible and arranges a midnight snack at home he can come through the ordeal almost undamaged.

BUT not quite. His reputation as a speaker has certainly been ruined and rather unjustly, since he has not spoken. His extemporaneous speech, fully written out, remains in his pocket. It must be kept there. One may encounter, once or twice in a lifetime, an ill-managed club where, against everyone's wishes, a speech can be delivered. That is the occupational hazard which the orator must risk. The risk, happily, is small.

Interesting Exception

Winnipeg Free Press

THE SLAVE labor system is being placed on trial in Europe before a tribunal arranged by the international commission against concentration camp regimes. This unofficial court which will follow the rules of legal procedure has received wide attention because its sponsors are themselves survivors of the Nazi and Soviet camps. Some of them, such as the former French Communist and Nazi victim of 1943-45, Mr. David Rousset, are men of considerable prominence.

There is however one point about the investigation which has generally escaped notice. The group represents a wide range of political opinion and the inquiry is by no means directed solely at the Soviet Union. Countries to be investigated include those which have, over a considerable period, been targets of criticism, often by liberals and often, too, by Communist spokesmen. They include, in addition to Russia, Franco Spain, Greece and Yugoslavia.

According to a statement by Dr. Georges Andre, Belgian president of the commission, permission has already been received from the Spanish, Greek and Yugoslav governments for on-the-spot investigations of the various charges. One state has refused to have anything to do with the commission or to allow investigators on its soil. That state is the Soviet Union.

Not Exactly Ready For Mounting

As Our Readers See It

SOLOMON ATTAINED

"Realist" hardly lives up to his pen name when he suggests men were not already well aware of the difference between good and evil long ages before King Solomon, who reigned in Israel, as far as we know, about 974 to 937 B.C. There were many ancient civilizations in the ages preceding this era, such as Chinese, Egyptians, Greeks, Romans, etc. with quite as high a standard of ethics and morals as anything we have today.

The legend of Solomon's supreme wisdom hardly bears close scrutiny. He did indeed worship Yahweh, but according to Scripture (see I Kings) not nearly as devotedly as did his father, David. He was given to a rather peculiar habit of erecting altars to foreign deities. His excuse being that these were for his foreign wives of which he had no small number!

Perhaps his success in keeping peace among his thousand wives gained him the special favor of heaven. Certainly his obituary gives us no glowing testimonial (I Kings XI 43).

As a humanist I entirely agree with "Realist" when he says that most of our difficulties (he refers, of course, to his fellow-Christians) stem from the ignorance of early Christian theologians. Exactly, my friend. And what they didn't know they made up. That is the reason of our empty churches today, for the extreme apathy of the people on matters religious.

HUMANIST.

THE MATURE MIND

Having followed with interest the correspondence emanating from Dr. Marian Sherman's letters to the Times, may I say that apparently the mature mind is a unit which sees we are not and do not live separately and apart (in reality) but as a whole. Any attempt to immortalize a so-called personal life is death.

It is as a whole man we want to live not broken down piecemeal into simple persons. We have got to see ourselves as one to be reborn!

Jesus, on the Cross, finds our oneness when He accepts the thief into Paradise, recognizing forgiveness is for all mankind, not a favored few.

How could He commend a personal spirit to God? Who has not thirsted as a whole and been quenched with vinegar? All of us hang on a cross until we see our Saviour (as One) in ourselves. This represents the mature mind!

HANDLING DELINQUENTS

It must be gratifying to those who accept other people's opinions rather than think for themselves to hear from a man who should know, that "he doesn't believe boys are any worse today than in the past." "They are," he says, "better educated and better mannered."

Considering the astronomical figure present-day schooling costs one might reasonably expect better education, yet the average writing is poor and the spelling often something to marvel at.

As for manners—if the holder of the "better manners" belief would drive slowly through a school zone about noon he might have reason to change his opinion on that score.

Now the accusing finger seems to be pointed at parents as being to blame. Let us in the name of common sense make the present younger generation toe the mark before they, too, become parents and in their turn fall short in the matter of training and discipline of their children. Whatever boys of the past did or did not do there were strangely few crimes committed by teen-agers compared with the present time.

Before matters improve the slackness in handling young offenders will need considerable tightening up. Instead of police courts and Borstals and psychology, try a stick applied to the spot designed for such ministrations, and what moral suasion failed to do a prolonged tingling sensation and resulting humiliation may achieve.

L. F. HEYWOOD.

PUBLICITY

After reading and seeing the publicity given to the charge laid against a promising young athlete in the Times, I, like many others no doubt, felt sad and humiliated over his downfall, and can imagine the heartache brought to his parents.

Why give such glaring publicity to the misfortunes of our youth? Surely it is bad advertising for our lovely city and I can't see how it is edifying to your readers?

Does not the law regard a man as innocent until he is proved guilty? "To err is human but to lift and protect is divine!" Would it not be wiser and more elevating to help our unfortunate youths rise again and restore them again to the esteem they previously had?

I have high regard for your excellent paper and especially for you, Mr. Editor, and I write in the interests of a still more excellent Times!

FAIR PLAY.

(Ed. note.—The Times regards any comment on the case at present as sub judice. We will have more to say following the trial.)

FOR RAIN

Answering the article in your paper "suggest rain-maker for Saanich" and Reeve Casey desiring to know what the cost would be—I'd like to suggest that he might call a day of prayer—as Britain did some time ago and which prayer was answered.

We forget that "all this world is God's own field" and we are privileged to live here for a "little time." Does anyone truly believe we deserve God's goodness to us, when we leave Him completely out of everything?

La Prensa And La Nacion

New York Times

IF President Peron of Argentina and Eva Peron believe that La Prensa of Buenos Aires has been forgotten because it no longer fills the front-page headlines of American newspapers they are mistaken. The news that the expropriated journal and its still independent associate La Nacion are being penalized on a trumped-up customs charge has not gone unnoticed.

It came as a reminder that tyranny and injustice are still guiding principles in the Argentine of the Perons. The deduction that is naturally made with regard to La Prensa is that Peron is trying to avoid paying anything for the extremely valuable buildings and printing equipment that he seized.

At the same time he is dealing a shrewd financial blow to the equally great and still independent Nacion.

The law expropriating La Prensa signed by Peron on April 18 gave the government the right to buy the newspaper's property and name at a forced sale. An auditor was appointed to inventory the property and decide on the price. On May 1 the President announced that La Prensa would be turned over to the General Confederation of Labor, which will complete its degradation, for the Confederation is wholly subservient to the Perons.

Now it looks as if La Nacion is running into new dangers. Aside from the customs fine, the paper has been attacked violently in recent weeks in Eva Peron's journal, Democracia.

La Nacion has always been included in the peronist vilification of La Prensa, for it is also internationally famous and independent, which makes it an anomaly in a city where the rest of the newspapers are venal servants of the Peron regime.

Although little known outside of Argentina; there are fine and free newspapers in the provinces, like the Capital of Rosario, the Voz del Interior of Cordoba, the Intransigente of Salta, and Los Andes of Mendoza. These, too, are in danger and indeed have already been subjected to persecution.

It would be a tragedy if North and South Americans should now forget that the battle which La Prensa lost is being carried on valiantly by others who deserve as much support and sympathy as was rightly extended to the great Buenos Aires newspaper that is now eclipsed.

Total War And Co-Existence

(Second of three articles.)

By WALTER LIPPMANN from Washington

IN yesterday's article I contended that the only form a settlement with the Soviet Union could take would be by a military negotiation. Today I must give some reasons why I believe that the conflict, despite all its enormous political, social and ideological elements, is at bottom a military conflict.

Lippmann

This is not the accepted view. The Communists hold that the internal contradictions of capitalism, as they call them, will cause capitalist countries, the leader among them the United States, to go to war, and that the final defeat of the capitalist world will be brought about by insurrection within these countries supported by the military power of the Soviet state.

The anti-Communists, curiously enough, agree with this analysis and prophecy except that they reverse it and argue that the internal contradictions of the totalitarian Communist states will compel the Soviet government to resort to war.

These doctrines seem to me contrary to the facts. The Communist revolution in Russia was brought about by the First World War. There was no expansion of communism in the world until the end of the Second World War. In my view the conflict which might bring on the third world war is primarily and fundamentally the consequence, not of the nature of communism or of capitalism but of the unstable military relationship between the Soviet Union and the Atlantic community.

The Communist movement has been in existence for at least a century. Its creed was formulated in the Communist Manifesto of 1848 and all its policies and promises have been current ever since.

It was the defeat of Russia by Germany in the First World War, not the internal contradictions of the capitalist society, which enabled the Communists, who had been ineffective revolutionary conspirators and agitators for 70 years, to gain possession of the machinery of a great state.

EFFORTS FAILED

They never got possession of the machinery of any other state until there had been another great war. In the early years after the First World War they tried to promote the revolution in many countries—in Germany, in Italy, in Poland, in Hungary, in China. Always they failed.

Never did they succeed by revolutionary action in capturing the state and holding it. Not only did they fail everywhere but the nearer they came to success, the more violent was the counter-revolution which took the form of Fascism and Nazism.

But at the end of the Second World War the Russian armies, having resisted the German invasion, advanced to a line in the centre of Western Europe where, the German army having been destroyed, they encountered the armies of the West. That line is the line of the Iron Curtain.

Thus, if we survey the history of the Communist revolution for a century, we find that its course has been determined at every critical juncture not by the Marxist analysis and prophecy, but by military events. We are warranted, therefore, in concluding that a military settlement with the Soviet Union is the key to the settlement of the conflict between the Communist revolution and the non-Communist world.

If that is the case, then the issue reduced to its critical elements and stripped of the confusion between cause and effect, is how much territory is to remain under the military control of the Soviet government.

The question is not what Marx and Lenin taught, what Stalin and Molotov believe, what Communists everywhere hope for and conspire to do. The question is where the Red Army is to be, and where it is to be able to go, and where it is not to be able to go. That is the question that will have to be answered either by negotiation or by a war.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"MAYBE," said the Elevator Man, "it's just as well that making artificial rain costs a lot of money. I see where Saanich has been thinking of getting into the active department of the weather business. Well, the council has precipitated a crisis more than once, but precipitating a little irrigation moisture is quite a different thing. It takes more than words to do that. It's easy to create a few moist brows at any meeting, but you have to do more than deliver a speech to moisten 20,000 acres. And the costs apparently go higher than the airplane that does the job. The taxpayers might raise an awful dust in spite of the rainfall, and if it didn't work the first time I doubt if there'd be a second chance. It wouldn't be a case of 'if at first you don't succeed, seed, seed again.' Going up!

Tobin

"At the same time," said the Elevator Man, "I guess it's no joke for those farmers with their crops drying out. You can't blame them for wanting to find a cure for their problem. Dryness is all right in its place—say in a glass of sherry or a bath towel—but you can overdo it. You can overdo wetness too. That was the fear of the lady at the missionary society meeting who heard the minister say: 'Thousands of gallons of rum go into Africa for every missionary that is sent there.' 'Hmmm,' she says to her neighbor. 'That seems rather a large allowance for those men.' Going down!

"I suppose, though," said the Elevator Man, "it's all relative, this matter of wet and dry. Sometimes they produce the same result. Take those two fellas who met on the street, for instance. Says one, 'I lent Brown $10 yesterday. He told me he was stranded high and dry.' 'Oh?' says the other. 'That's strange. He asked me for $10 because he could hardly keep his head above water'."

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beastall

Summer blooming perennials of great interest are the plants in the genus erigeron (er-ij'-er-on).

Belonging to the composite family (daisy-like flowers) the erigeron contains species from two inches to three feet in height. Those which are native to the Pacific Coast are found in the Olympic Mountains, while others inhabit the Yukon.

Hilda

The color range is interesting for border work. The familiar lavender erigeron combines well with the lavender—blue delphiniums, yellow coreopsis, and later with the white and salmon shades of phlox but not with the magenta shades. The yellow and white erigerons are not so often seen in the garden, but should be used more since these are two important colors in a perennial border.

Erigeron speciosus is the tallest, to three feet, with flat-topped clusters of rich lavender flowers often one and one-half inches across, and resembling some varieties of michaelmas daisies. Starting to flower in mid-June, they provide excellent cutting material for indoor arrangements, and when grown in a rich humus with plenty of moisture will continue to bloom until August. While easy to grow from seed, some plants will have inferior habit and form, making it necessary to select only the best for border work.

E. mucronatus is good for the rock garden, with low foliage and long wiry stems bearing half-inch flowers which turn white later. Flowering starts before E. speciosus and lasts until the severe frosts.

A rock-garden beauty growing only to 12 inches and bearing orange flowers is E. aurantiacus. Summer blooming, it also makes an excellent border plant. The above three species may be grown from seed and the best plants increased by division.

Choice rock-garden varieties listed by local nurseries are: E. aureus, golden yellow on two-inch stems; E. flettii, white, from the Olympics; E. trifidus with profuse lavender flowers and cut foliage, four inches; E. sp. Yukon River, white flowers tinted mauve and grey-green leaves.

Salary Boost For Judges Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons, shooting for a summer adjournment some time this week, ran headlong Wednesday into time-consuming opposition to a Government bill to give judges a 20-per-cent increase in pay.

The measure finally won first reading, but only after the Progressive Conservatives urged that it be deferred at least until the fall session and the C.C.F. and Social Credit groups suggested it be dropped altogether.

The opposition generally was based on the argument that this is not the time to raise salaries of one specific group when the people as a whole are fighting inflation.

The C.C.F. forced a formal division on a government motion to go into committee on the preliminary resolution. The motion carried 144 to 24, but the vote produced a minor split in the Liberal and Progressive Conservative ranks.

A measure was approved revamping federal control over dairy products and substitutes moving interprovincially.

First reading was given a bill providing for elections in the Northwest Territories and making minor voting alterations.

Church Properties To Be Sold Soon

Sale of St. Barnabas Church buildings and land on Cook Street will be completed soon with another church group, church authorities said today in commenting on a news article in Monday's Victoria Daily Times which stated the church will move to another site in the Belmont Avenue district.

It had been speculated that the old church might be demolished.

Cows, Sheep Get Dizzy

CHICAGO (AP) — More cattle and sheep are doing the "circle two-step" and that spells trouble for the animals and their owners, the American Veterinary Medical Association reported today.

"Going around in circles is a sign of listerellosis, a fast-killing disease which is on the increase," an association spokesman said.

The disease is caused by a germ which may produce fatal imflammation of the brain. It attacks mostly cattle and sheep but also may infect swine, horses, goats and even humans.

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—A blind girl who never attended public school before stands sixth in the 12th grade at Morrison High School here with an average of 89. Pearl Campbell, 21, is a graduate of the Halifax School for the Blind.

'A GOOD IDEA'

Meet Tourists With Lassie And Bagpipes

The tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce still thinks it would be a good idea if incoming boats were met by a highland lassie, complete with bagpipes.

So far, however, the group has been unable to find any one girl who would like to take on the chore as a regular job. The nearest it has come so far with its plan is to consider having the entire Victoria Girls' Pipe Band parade every Saturday afternoon in front of the Parliament Buildings.

The problem now is to get some chamber member or some tourist-minded citizen to sponsor such a feat.

Bail Denied To Logger

DUNCAN — Application for bail, made by 30-year-old Douglas Seigner, Meade Creek logger, held on five charges, was refused by Stipendiary Magistrate G. A. Tisdale Wednesday.

Siegner is charged with assault causing grievous bodily harm to Buster Ware, assaulting Constable George Phillips, R.C.M.P., and Jock Davidson, manager of the Riverside Inn, Lake Cowichan, and with assaulting and attempting to cause grievous bodily harm to Raymond Schutte. He is also charged with the theft of a knife belonging to J. H. MacAdam.

Congress Divided As To Ending War On Parallel

Republicans Oppose Acheson View That Peace On Malik's Proposal Would Mean Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress reacted warily today to State Secretary Dean Acheson's statement that a cease-fire on the 38th Parallel in Korea could be viewed as a "successful conclusion" to the fighting there.

For the most part, Republicans criticized settling the Korean conflict on the 38th Paarllel. Democratic reaction was more mixed. The 38th Parallel was the old line between North Korea and South Korea.

Acheson Wednesday called on Congress to authorize the admini tration's vast new program for $8,500,000,000 of military and economic aid to the free world during the coming year—regardless of what happens in Korea.

In response to committee questioning, he said:

1. Withdrawal of Communist forces behind the 38th Parallel in Korea could be considered "a successful conclusion of the conflict."

"If this aggression is stopped, and with guarantees that it will not be resumed, then you will have repelled aggression and restored peace and security in the area," Acheson said.

2. "Disaster" threatens in Iran, where Iranian nationalization of the British-developed oil industry has created a new world crisis.

3. Even in the event of an "honorable negotiated peace" in Korea, the $8,500,000,000 mutual security program of economic and military aid is still vital.

Seize Chinese Junk With Big Rubber Cargo

HONG KONG (AP)—A Royal Navy patrol boat today seized a Chinese junk laden with rubber tires and raw rubber. A Hong Kong court confiscated the cargo and the junk. The rubber, valued at $42,000, was presumed to be destined for Communist China and the Portuguese colony of Macao.

Civilian, Officer Die In Gun Battle

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Police rifle and machine-gun bullets killed an angry husband in Northwest Indianapolis Tuesday night after he fatally wounded one patrolman and critically wounded another with shotgun blasts. Police identified the dead man as John Hoard, 37. The dead man's widow, Mary, told officers she and her husband had quarrelled and he told her, "I'm going to shoot me a couple of policemen so they'll kill me."

Subs In Accident

LONDON (Reuters — Two Royal Navy submarines have been ordered back to their base for examination after a slight accident on exercises in the North Sea, it was disclosed today. The Admiralty said no one was injured and that neither submarine was in any danger. They are the Sirdar and the Scythian.

Red Bombers Attacking U.S. Must First Cross Canado, Claxton Warns

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Wednesday the Russians may have 25 atomic bombs or more and there are two main routes across Canada for air attacks if war comes. Canada has about seven targets which might invite use of one of those bombs.

Those were among the facts he marshalled in an address to the Ottawa Kiwanis Club to back his statement that even if something comes of Russia's Korean peace overtures Canada must not slacken defence efforts.

The minister reaffirmed the cabinet's opinion that the time is not ripe for general economic controls and the hope they will never be needed. He also intimated that the United States is going to help foot the bill for some defence installations in Canada which would benefit the whole of North America.

Mr. Claxton referred to Russia's A-bombs in an appraisal of the threat to Canada. If war came, there would likely be air and submarine attacks on Canada. There were two likely avenues of air approach.

"The first might be from the northwest, from Siberia, swinging across Alaska either to the east of the Rockies into the industrial centres or to the West Coast cities. The second approach might be from Northern Europe across Iceland, the tip of Greenland, Labrador, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and down to the industrial centres.

The Russians had four-engined bombers to carry the bombs here but probably not enough to make saturation raids.

Therefore there were about 30 targets reported likely to attract an A-bomb in the U.S. and about seven in Conada. Air attack against at least some of them was considered likely.

Some Canadian targets might be hit when the Russians found it impossible to get through to the U.S. target. A master plan of radar protection, communications and fighter interceptor planes had been worked out with the U.S. and was "being built up as fast as it can be done."

Since any attack on the U.S. almost certainly would come across Canada, it "is only reasonable that they should assist" in the defence of Canada.

"So far Canada has paid for all the defence equipment purchased from the U.S. and we shall continue to do that as long as the equipment is for the defence of Canada here or abroad but where it is used for the defence of all North America . . . we shall work together."

Burma's Grim Civil War Costs Huge Sum, Lives

Most Of Country's Major Industry At Standstill In Never-Ending Conflict

This grim game of cops and robbers has cost the country an estimated $2,100,000,000, tied up nearly 30,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen, and taken a toll of 50,000 lives. Defence costs have more than doubled since 1948.

Communist action plunged the Burmese into fratricidal conflict three months after united effort won them freedom from Britain.

By the end of 1948 the urge to rebel spread among the peoples' volunteer organization, main governmental prop, and a section of the armed forces. It was climaxed early in 1949 by a revolt of the Karens, a minority group which feared annihilation of tribal tradition without a separate state.

The government claims rebel strength at no time exceeded 20,000. It said half this number surrendered under amnesty by Jan. 4, 1951.

The government claim does not tally with other estimates of rebel numbers. Breakdown figures by competent sources gave these as: Communists, 12,000; Karens, 20,000; P.V.O.'s and army mutineers 14,000.

Much of the rice-growing delta is held by Communists and Karens who occasionally join forces in the war against the government.

1,000 Yachtsmen To Gather Here For Big Regatta

More than 1,000 yachtsmen from Vancouver Island, the B.C. mainland and Washington, will converge on Victoria Saturday to participate in the six-day Pacific International Yachting Association regatta at Cadboro Bay, headquarters of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

Five large northwest Pacific yacht clubs and about 12 smaller clubs associated with the P.I.Y.A. will be represented at the regatta. About 200 boats of all classes are expected to take an active part in the racing events.

The sailing events will open Saturday with a rendezvous of all boats at Bedwell Harbor, Pender Island. The first race will be held on Sunday for larger boats from Bedwell Harbor to Cadboro Bay. At the same time there will be a predicted log race for power boats.

The regetta will include a series of three races next Monday, Tuesday and Thursday for large boats. There will also be races for the smaller types of sailing vessels, including a special handicap race.

A feature of the regetta will be a "free for all" race open to all classes of small boats on Thursday of next week.

ARRESTED FOR CARD MAILED MISS TRUMAN

LOS ANGELES (AP).—Post office inspectors Tuesday arrested Paul de la Croix, 42-year-old itinerant street preacher of Monrovia, Calif., on charges of mailing a libellous, scurrilous and defamatory postcard to Margaret Truman.

Inspector F. H. Casey said the card was mailed to the President's daughter April 16, in care of the National Broadcasting Company in New York. Pasted to the card was a picture cut from a magazine showing Miss Truman in a low-cut dress.

De la Croix was remanded to jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

DURBAN, South Africa (CP)—Durban housewives complain that they are neither shorthand writers nor made of money. Menus suggested in the South African Broadcasting Company's programs are dictated at an impossible speed and ignore the present high cost of living, they say.

Typhoid Carrier Object Of Hunt

REGINA (CP)—A Saskatchewan government health officer today searched for a typhoid carrier in Pense, Sask., as a sixth case of typhoid fever from the village was confirmed.

Pense is a village of 375 residents 27 miles west of Regina. Dr. B. T. Dale, provincial director of preventive medical services, said he believes that this person, while not himself suffering from the disease, is infecting others.

The provincial laboratory is carrying out tests to find where the disease originated. The first cases were all persons who attended a tea party in Pense late in May.

But neither the Schuette child nor his mother was at the party, overseer G. Harlton of Pense said.

Views Of Sport

By RED SMITH

Bob Murphy came into the International Boxing Club offices with his chauffeur and stablemate, Rocky Graziano, and Rocky hurried to an open window to gaze down lovingly to the street where his car was parked, a shimmering Cadillac convertible with the top down, exposing the red leather upholstery. A tall kid wearing a windbreaker with "New Mexico Aggies" on the back was standing on the sidewalk admiring the heap.

"I hope you locked it," Rocky was told. "He looks like a basketball player."

Smith

"Get a load of that job," Rocky said. "And they think Sugar Robinson goes first class!"

Murphy sat down to read some mail that had been held for him. He was on his way back to training camp from the boxing commission office where he and Jake LaMotta had undergone preliminary examination for their fight in Yankee Stadium tonight. His light red hair was tangled, his red whiskers bristly. He looked like something an artist would produce if you said, "Paint me an Irish fighter"—tall and rangy with lean features, a jutting chin and jutting brows.

A recent conversation with Ray Miller, the old left hooker, was recalled. There'd been talk about this fight and what a bodacious brawl it should be between two indestructible belters, and the remark had been made that Murphy was the sort of defensive boxer who resented it when a punch missed him.

"That's where you're wrong," Miller had said. "He seems to be getting hit a lot but he's throwing punches so fast himself the other fellow never gets set for a solid shot, and Murphy's moving all the time."

"I agree with him," Murphy said. "Oh, I've caught some solid belts. Everybody does. But I don't get hit as much as people think."

"LaMotta will belt you," he was warned.

"Sure he will," he agreed. "It's got to be a good fight. It can't miss. Both of us can punch, both of us can take it, and we both keep moving in. It can't miss."

"If you had your choice of styles, what sort of opponent would you prefer to fight?"

"Like Jake, a fellow who keeps walking in and punching. Then I can pick my shots. A cutie can louse you up but if an opponent keeps punching, I slip punches and slip punches"—he bobbed his head, brushing his hands past unshaven cheeks—"and I pick my shots. I like an opponent who likes to fight."

He talks and looks like a fighter who truly loves it.

Logic In The Ring

"For a big fight I don't like this rule that the referee must stop it after three knockdowns in one round. Say you get knocked down for nine and when you get up you're still a little hurt and you get knocked down again. Now if you're really in shape, really full of strength, why, after that second nine count you can be three or four times stronger than before.

"But this guy is a good belter and he knocks you down again. You take nine for the third time, and now you're fine, now your 10 times as strong as the first time. Why should they stop you then? If you're really in shape, I don't think it's possible to be hurt bad, unless you hit your head on the floor or something."

Everything Is Jake

Tonight will be the biggest payday of Murphy's life. "I think this ought to do between $200,000 and $300,000," he said. "My biggest purse was about $11,000 with Joe Rindone in Boston. They turned 10,000 people away."

At the commission, Murphy had weighed 176 and LaMotta about the same, 183 fully dressed.

"Jake will be stronger at that weight," Bob said. "I looked at him and he's no middleweight. He has a small waist and small legs but he's big up here in the chest and shoulders. He's a real light-heavyweight."

"You know where all Jake's weight is?" said Graziano, LaMotta's pal. "In his head. If he had a normal head, he'd be a lightweight!"

Lobs And Volleys

By DICK PRAUL

Next big net tourney for Victoria area will be the city lawn tennis championships to be conducted starting July 7 at Victoria Lawn Tennis Club.

Hank Bennett, the ex-air force man, won't be around to defend his singles, doubles and mixed doubles crowns, so it will be a free-for-all with at least half a dozen persons aiming to take over where he left off. Hank is in Toronto these days.

When Val Speed, 15, defeated an experienced player to win the women's singles title at Camosun Tennis Club last week-end, she notched her first title in a sport in which she is expected to go a long way.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Speed, of 507 Montreal Street, who, while it is needless to say were delighted at her victory, took it in stride. They have known how many hours of patient practice Val has behind her.

Val Speed

Her dad, a great sports follower, won the Pacific Northwest single sculls title in 1930 at Elk Lake, so Val's win means another trophy for the Speed household.

Val is a girl with sports interests. She is also an excellent swimmer and figure skater and is well above average as a basketball and baseball performer.

Canadian net stars are performing at Wimbledon this week for the first time in many years. Canada's Lawn Tennis Association's efforts in achieving this has been mentioned before in this column.

Now, according to a Canadian Press wire report, the Quebec Lawn Tennis Association is moving to spruce up the playing of young net enthusiasts by importing Ted Lemaire, U.S. tennis pro from Miami, to hold classes for boys and girls.

A whole roster of champions at Victoria Lawn Tennis Club emerged from the club tourney completed Saturday. Ron Mitchell, who won the singles, succeeds Jack Milledge, while Bessie Wilson, women's singles victor, follows in the footsteps of Ann Peden.

Jack Parker teamed with Bill Dunbar to win the men's doubles and the Parker-Gwyn-Dawson duo won the mixed doubles.

Of all those who fell by the wayside, none was more worthy of mention than Victor Sherman, who at 69 came within a few strokes of annexing the men's flights. Mr. Sherman reached the final round with Art Ensor, many years his junior and an agile performer, after disposing of a couple of ex-club champions in the earlier rounds.

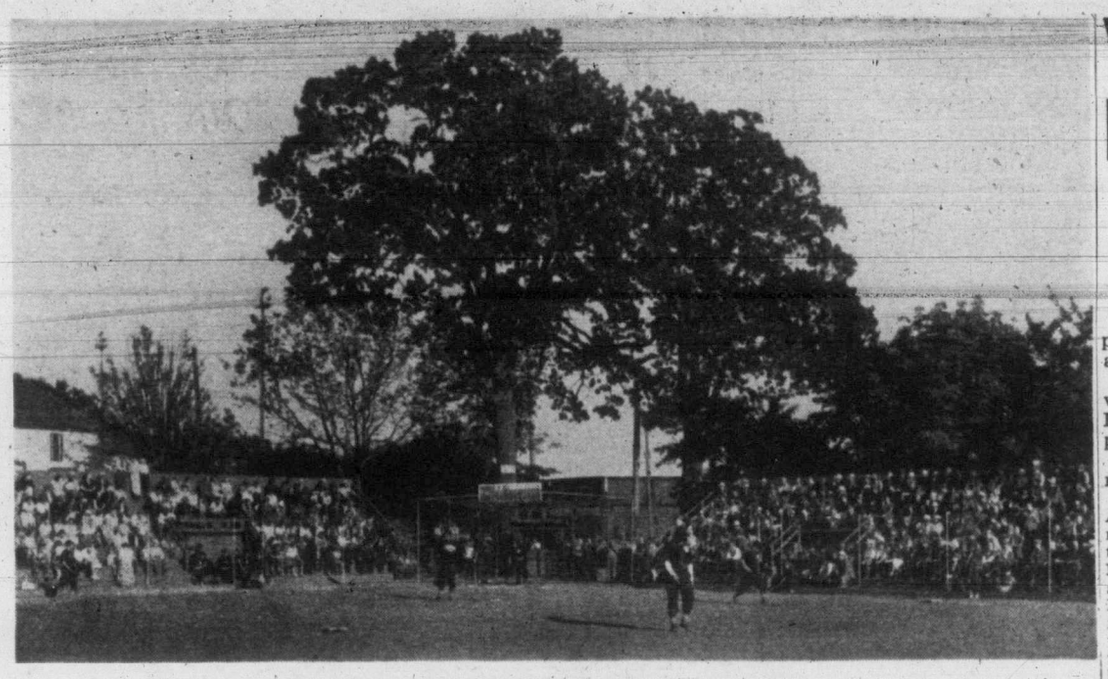
Bisley Team In First Workout

BISLEY, England (CP) — All 18 members of Canada's Bisley rifle team turned out Tuesday for workouts over the camp's widely-scattered ranges despite drizzling rain and unseasonably cold weather.

Since the team's arrival last week-end for the matches starting July 9, every member has been out on the butts for brief practice shoots, but this was the first time they had ventured out in full force.



Senior A Softball Finally Comes Of Age

This outfielder's view at Central Park shows the newly constructed grandstand around the infield. The work was finished this week and tomorrow night will be the first time that admission will be charged for the seats. The stands represent the initial step in a movement to make the park worthy of a sports-minded town the size of Victoria. Holding between 500 and 600 fans in each side, the stands will be paid for out of the gate receipts. Contrary to certain rumors, the cost is not being absorbed by the city; the league will pay back all costs within the next two years. The stands took approximately one month to construct.

NEW COMFORTS AT CENTRAL PLEASE FANS

Stands Completed; Opening Thursday

It looks as if the senior A softballers have at last attained a permanent home.

The stands at Central Park are finished now and tomorrow night they will be officially opened; that is, admission will be charged for the first time.

The stands, along the first and third base foul lines, will hold about 1,200 fans in comfort and safety.

The next step in improving the park will be the construction of a large scoreboard in centrefield, dressing rooms under the stands and a concession booth behind the scorers' room.

It is estimated that the total cost will be $4,000. The league will pay the city for the construction work out of the gate receipts. In case of league failure, several local business men have guaranteed to meet the cost.

The stands were started at the end of May by city public works department. Wally Smith and Jim Lackie were the chief instigators of the improvement program.

DREAMS COMING TRUE

Veterans of many softball seasons, Smith and Lackie are seeing their dreams come true in the form of a first-rate park. Bud Hocking handled an advisory role and Ald. Bill Pinfold was the liaison man between the league and the city parks commission.

Many city firms aided in the construction by donating or giving good prices on lumber, nails and paint.

SIOUX CITY COMING

Smith reports that with a proper park it will be possible to bring in touring teams to face local clubs. The first of these exhibitions is scheduled for July 7 and 8 when the Sioux City Ghosts will play three games here.

Retain Buttons

City button holders Ken Lea and Laurie Kerr successfully defended their tags for the second time Sunday by defeating professionals Fred Burns and Bill Court, 4 and 3, at the Gorge Vale Golf Crub.

Winners had a best ball of 67, losers 70.

Sports Car Club, Track Started At Cobble Hill

Three young men with a progressive outlook on car racing are attempting to start a sports car club at Cobble Hill.

Colin Horton, George Hebbert and Bill Hart were recently deprived of racing facilities at Langford and they have decided to take matters into their own hands.

A track, constructed by Ted Shearing, is rapidly nearing completion and needs only a final grading before it will be usable. Located near Dougan's cemetary on the Cowichan Bay Road the track is ⅝ of a mile long.

To show what enthusiasm can do, the boys are building their own cars for the opening event which they hope will be held this summer.

Unlike the conventional "hot rod" these models will incorporate special safety features in the way of brakes, belts, sponge-padded dashboards, cowls and steeering.

In their spare time the three lads have assembled parts from more than a dozen cars, welding the various bits and pieces into what promises to be a creditable achievement.

With complete electrical systems and detachable standard mufflers, the cars may be used on the road and track. Together the models represent some $2,025 and 3,000 hours of work.

SHAMROCKS TO FACE 'OLD MATES' TONIGHT

Victoria Shamrocks are going to run into a trio of old friends this week when they meet Nanaimo Native Sons twice, here Wednesday and at Nanaimo Saturday.

Now wearing the cloth of Nanaimo are Al Denoni, Vic Sage and Harry Irwin. Denoni and Sage are members of last year's Rocks while Irwin played four games for this year's edition.

Nanaimo recently defeated Vancouver Combines, the team that has taken the Irish three games out of four.

Art Green will center one line, flanked by Baker and Bobby Monaghan. The other line will be Whitey Severson between Larry Booth and Archie Browning. Rovers will be Tom Druce and Darrell Popham. Defensive units will be Norm Coates with Arnie Ferguson and Len Scott with Red McMillan. Duff McCaghey will be used in the utility role.

CLOSE GAP ON LEADERS

Combines Beat Joseph First, Then Indians

VANCOUVER—That man Stan Joseph is still doing his best to keep Victoria's Shamrocks out of first place in the Intercity Lacrosse League but his best wasn't good enough last night at Vancouver when his North Shore Indians were knocked over 14-12 by Vancouver Combines.

The Tribe's great goaltender was outfired by his opponents 48-33, but still managed to make the game close. Combines win unlocked their third place deadlock with the Redskins and moved to within four points of the Shamrocks and New Westminster Commandos.

EVEN ON SEASON

An even split between the two teams in four games played this season is keeping both clubs out of serious contention for first place. If the Tribe and Combines continue to swap victories both outfits are destined to end up where they are now, in the middle of the league.

Vancouver	8	8	204	186	16
North Shore	7	8	170	168	14
Nanaimo	3	12	132	221	6

Indians held a goal lead six times in the first half, but settled for a 9-8 lead on Jack Byford's last-minute goal.

But Indians' defense deserted Joseph after the interval, as Vancouver's fast-moving attack opened wide holes in the faltering Redskin rearguard.

Combines outshot Indians 14-6 and 12-9 in the final two periods, as they raced to a 12-11 three-quarter lead, and then notched the odd goal in three in the finale.

CAVALLIN BACK

Another veteran poured from the same mold as Cavallin, Bo Bradford, rapped in Indians' final goal at 9.20, only to have Ernie Smith insure Vancouver's victory 15 seconds later.

Murphy Slim Choice Over Jake LaMotta

NEW YORK (AP)—Jake Lamotta and Irish Bobby Murphy, two of the roughest, toughest fighters in the business, collide tonight in a Yankee Stadium 12-rounder that has the fans buzzing.

Murphy, a 29-year-old former sailor with a zest for a scrap, is a slim 6-to-5 favorite to whip the Bronx bull and go on to a title bout with the light-heavyweight champion, Joey Maxim.

There's no title at stake yet the lure of a real "shore leave brawl," as Murphy calls it, has captivated the fans' interest. It wouldn't be surprising if the International Boxing Club's prediction of a 25,000 to 30,00 crowd and a $200,000 gate is fulfilled.

Gunter Halts Aces' Bid For League Lead

Hurls Four-Hitter In 5-0 Shutout

Ken Gunter was the choice of Pitzer & Nex manager Dick Williams last night and Gunter came through in great style to stave off the threat of Butler Aces in the Senior A Men's Softball League.

It was a tough loss for Aces. Starting pitcher Archie Sluggett and John Furmston, who relieved Sluggett in the fourth, gave up only six hits between them, two more than Aces garnered from Gunter.

DOUBLE PLAY HELPS

In the fourth inning, Aces loaded the bases with none out. Gunter got Willie Benn on a pop fly to first to ease the pressure. Gus Hilton then chopped a fly to short right field that Fiori Goegan ran a mile to gather in. After the fly, Archie Sluggett, who had tagged up at third, tried to score but was cut down at the plate by a bullet throw from Goegan.

UNEARNED RUNS

Gasmen scored their first run in the second inning as Ray Byers singled and moved to second when Goegan was walked. Chick Newman then plated Byers when his ground smash eluded Aces second sacker Bill Benn.

Their other two runs were scored in the fourth frame on Ab Weibe's single, two walks and another boot by the Aces infield.

After the fourth inning, Gunter and Furmston locked horns in a tenacious hurling duel, with each tosser giving up only one hit over the rest of the route.

Sluggett continued to wave a hot bat picking up three singles in four times. Sluggett has been riding the crest of a great hitting streak.

Billy Benn supplied the defensive jewel of the evening when he made a diving pickup of Toad Garnet's daisycutter in the third inning.

The next senior A game will be played at Central Park Thursday when Forest Products meet Bluebird Cabs at 6.30.

A's Take Tri-City As Sturgeon Wins Gamble

By BILL WALKER

Pitching depth may be the root of the Victoria Athletics' problems, but nobody has told manager Bob Sturgeon about it.

Sturgeon last night went shooting for his second straight victory as a pilot and got it—6-5 in 10 innings over Tri-City Braves—but before he did he used up 66⅔ per cent of his pitching staff.

The "play today's game today, for tomorrow it may rain" angle went like this:

John Tierney started for the A's and went along for 6⅓ innings. During that time he was tagged for 10 hits and three runs. Meanwhile the A's had built up a 5-3 working margin on Joe Nicholas, who went the route for the Braves.

Hal Jackson, who was eventually to become the hero when he singled in the winning run in the 10th, started the upheaval when he singled in the second. Milt Martin followed with a double.

Shortstop Sam Kanelos then booted a ground ball as Martin cut in front of him going to third and before Kanelos could retrieve the ball Marvin Diercks was on second and two runs were in.

In the third a walk to Billy Dunn followed by a single by Don Pries and a comedy of errors by the Tri-City infield on Pries' blow put Dunn across the plate and Pries on third. Bill White skied out to score Pries with a fourth run.

Martin then hit a home run in the fourth and the A's led 5-2.

Tierney who had hung on though giving up single runs in the second and third was finally chased in the seventh when the Braves scored once and had runners on first and third with one out.

Smith, Hedgecock, Osborn

Then came pitcher No. 2—Ron Smith.

Smith put out the fire when Bill White doubled Clint Cameron at the plate on Kalenos' fly to right.

Smith ran into trouble in the eighth when a single by Greenlaw, a fielder's choice, a single by Spaeter, a wild pitch and an error by Milt Martin allowed Charley Peterson to score.

Then came pitcher No. 3—Jim Hedgecock.

Hedgecock, who had blanked the Braves Monday, promptly struck out Vic Buccola to end that rally.

But Hedgecock ran into grief in the ninth when walks to Neil Bryant and Cameron and a bunt single by Nick Pesut loaded the bases. He struck out Kanelos but Greenlaw flied to left to score Bryant with the tieing run. That was all for Hedgecock.

Then came pitcher No. 4—Bill Osborn.

Came the 10th and Osborn bumped into trouble when Buccola singled. The A's third double play of the game wiped out this threat.

Propst, Brkich Were Left

With time and the mound staff running out, Bill White took things in his own hands—almost. His tremendous high fly to centre just missed going out and he ended up on third with a triple.

Jackson then rifled a single to deep left to end the anxiety once and for all. White doing a tap dance as he scampered home with the winning run.

Why all the worry about pitchers?

Well, all that were left on the bench were Jim Propst and John Brkich. Propst had to work tonight's game and Brkich—he was ready to go last night if needed.

That's the way Sturgeon played it. And he won. And the fans liked it, even though the Braves outhit the A's 14-8 and left 13 runners stranded on the basepaths.

Bill Boemler Throttles Caps

Bill Boemler handcuffed the Vancouver Capilanos with only three hits Tuesday night as the last-place Yakima Bears trounced the Western International League leaders 10-1.

Boemler was never in trouble, and had a no-hitter until the sixth inning, when the league's leading batter, Dick Sinovic, hit a single.

Yakima jumped to a four-run lead in the first inning on three hits and three walks. Earl Richmond homered with none on in the second inning.

Bob Brunner, first of four Vancouver hurlers, took the loss.

Wenatchee handed Salem a 13-7 beating to tie Tri-City for fourth place and Spokane edged Tacoma, 7-6.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

Nine little pitchers sitting on the bench; Paine got the gate, then there were eight.

Eight little pitchers sitting on the bench; Marshall weighed two-eleven, then there were seven.

Seven little pitchers sitting on the bench; Barrett showed no tricks, then there were six.

Six little pitchers sitting on the bench; Tierney failed to look alive, then there were five. (See story on last night's game.)

Five little pitchers sitting on the bench; Smith forgot to bolt the door, then there were four.

Four little pitchers sitting on the bench; Hedgecock lost the key, then there were three.

Three little pitchers sitting on the bench; Osborn came through, then there were two.

Two little pitchers sitting on the bench; Propst will soon be done then there'll be one.

One little pitcher sitting on the bench; Brkich is his name, after that what's left?

The above version of Mother Goose's nursery rhyme (Mother Goose probably won't recognize it as such) just goes to show what serious straits the Victoria Athletics of the Western International League are in as regards pitchers.

Walker

At the moment, the A's have but six pitchers. Four were used last night. All four contributed to the victory, but where does that leave manager Bob Sturgeon, who now is actually in worse shape pitcherwise than was his predecessor Dick Barrett?

Barrett at least had something to choose from at the start of the season. The choice was his. What he did with that option is history, that and the sale of John Marshall to Spokane and Barrett's dismissal.

Paging Portland Beavers

No one realizes the significance of the situation more than Sturgeon and club general manager Reg Patterson of the Athletics.

And as this is being written, the wires between here and Portland were humming for another hurler.

Sturgeon expressed a desire for either Larry Ward or Bob Drilling, both of whom are with the Portland Club, and both of whom are seeing little action except in mopping-up roles.

He feels, as does Patterson, that one or both could help the club.

Just what Portland's answer will be is problematical, but one thing that should be stressed is that the Athletics gave up a pretty good catcher and a pretty popular player when they sold Lilio Marcucci to the Beavers.

Certainly since his return, Milt Martin has all but made the fans forget about Marcucci with his robust hitting, but the prime need now is a pitcher.

Portland should be reminded of their obligations. Either Ward or Drilling could be optioned to Victoria on a 24-hour recall basis. This would help alleviate the situation, a situation that may become serious by next week with the A's facing a heavy schedule of 11 games in eight days.

A Stout-Hearted Crew

No manager can face this schedule with a shorthanded staff and although Sturgeon gambled four pitchers in winning last night's game, it can't go on forever, if his starters fail to last.

In this regard it should be pointed out that the A's pitching staff has held up well under the strain. It's the hitters who haven't been producing as they should.

A combination of an added starter and some good, solid base hits may be the answer. The club has the spirit. Sturgeon appears popular as a manager and the club feels it is on the way up.

Sturgeon himself says: "Don't expect any miracles from me. It's as I told the players. For the time being we're going to play percentage baseball. We'll see how that works out."

And if percentage baseball in Sturgeon's book means playing the game right down to the final out as he did last night, then the fans are in for some interesting baseball. The most surprised people in the park last night were Smith and Hedgecock when they were derricked hardly before they got the feel of the ball. But the A's won and that's what counts in Sturgeon's books.

One Happy Visitor

"If I hadn't caught them myself I wouldn't believe it," said Robert Armitage of Sacramento as he sized up these two beauties he took from Langford Lake while holidaying in Victoria. Mr. Armitage has fished California, Mexico and Alaskan waters and is used to landing big ones but was impressed by the fact that these sporting bass can be caught within a 20-minute ride of the centre of a bustling city. A dozen or more bass under two pounds he threw back in the lake.

WALT DROPO MISSING ON WAY TO JOIN PADRES

NEW YORK (UP)—An intensive search was launched early today throughout New York for big baseball slugger Walt Dropo, a hard man to hide.

The six-foot, five-inch, 220-pound first baseman, who was optioned by the Boston Red Sox to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League last Monday, was supposed to have flown from New York to San Diego yesterday but he suddenly disappeared.

"Dropo made a reservation on the 4 p.m. flight to the west coast yesterday," explained an airline official, "but he never turned up. The plane took off without him and he was listed as a 'no show' passenger. He never concelled his original reservation nor has he made any future reservation."

General manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, considerably concerned by Dropo's vanishing act, said the hulking first sacker had been in the Red Sox office Tuesday morning and then left by plane for New York.

Maglie Slows Dodgers Down

Two rude jolts in three days have slowed Brooklyn's bid to make a runaway of the National League race.

The latest blow to the Dodgers' plans was struck last night by their arch rivals, the New York Giants. A sterling three-hit pitching performance by Sal Maglie plus some timely hitting against previously-unbeaten Preacher Roe sparked the Giants to a 4-0 triumph.

It marked the third straight loss for the Dodgers, who absorbed two stunning defeats in Pittsburgh Sunday.

In winning the first of six games with the Dodgers within the next 10 days, the Giants reduced Brooklyn's lead to five games.

In the American League, the pace-setting Chicago White Sox inaugurated a successful home stand by vanquishing Detroit Tigers 11-3. The win, coupled with Washington's 7-3 victory against New York, increased the White Sox's lead over the Yankees to two games.

Boston's third-place Red Six remained four games off the pace, walloping Philadelphia Athletics, 13-5. Cleveland nipped St. Louis Browns 6-4 in 11 innings.

PHILS MOVE UP

Philadelphia's Phillies moved past Boston into fifth place in the National, shutting out the Braves 7-0. The Chicago Cubs upset third place St. Louis, winning a 10-inning 7-5 verdict. Pittsburgh's Howie Pollet outpitched Cincinnati's Harry Perkoswski 3-2.

Maglie was superb yesterday as he registered his 12th triumph—tops in the majors—before a crowd of 45,732 paying patrons. He walked lead-off batter Carl Furillo on four pitches and threw two more to Pee Wee Reese to open the game. Then he settled down, retiring 14 batters in a row from the second through the seventh inning. Only one Dodger reached second.

Mangrum Favorite As P.G.A. Begins

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—America's top-drawer golf stars prayed for rain today as they dashed into the first half of the 36-hole qualifier for the 33rd P.G.A. championship. Showers were forecast.

Lew Worsham, former National Open champion and host pro, said the 6,367-yard Oakmont Country Club layout with its lightning-fast greens plays "several strokes easier" when it's soaking wet.

The 140 entrants had their last free swing around the up-hill, down-dale 72-par plant yesterday. Most of them failed to find all the answers to question the course will ask through match play ending next Tuesday.

The greens, trimmed closer than a crew haircut, caused the hotshots plenty of trouble.

"When those greens are dry, it's like putting down a 15-step staircase, and trying to stop the ball on the eighth step," said former Open champion Lloyd Mangrum, from Niles, Ill.

The title-holder said he has been playing poorly since a mid-winter pneumonia attack. Just now he has a stomach ailment—and he said he might give up competitive golf unless he does well here.

TOUGH COURSE

Veteran Gene Sarazen, who won the P.G.A. the last time it was played at Oakmont in 1922, estimated that 158 strokes, 14 over par, will get into the championship match play bracket of 64—but Worsham set the figure at 152.

"This is the toughest golf course in the country," Sarazen said, "and no one is going to take it apart."

The record bears him out, too, for par has never been bettered over the full tournament route.

HOGAN MISSING

Absent as the aspirants teed off this morning were such standouts as Ben Hogan, victor in 1946 and 1948; Jimmy Demaret, Sam Byrd and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison.

All decided the route was too long, the program calling for 18 holes of medal play today and tomorrow, with 36 match play holes daily through July 3.

ISLAND LAKES MECCA

Local Bass Fishing Gaining Popularity

By BENNY BOYD

Every year more and more anglers are turning their fishing attention toward that little hand grenade with fins, the small mouth black bass. Due to the abundance of trout and salmon fishing on and around Vancouver Island, local fishermen have been inclined to overlook the bass, or "micropterus dolomieu lacepede," as he is zoologically known, but he is gaining more in popularity every fishing season.

Our island is fortunate to possess some of the best bass lakes in the province, most of these spots being within driving distance of the city.

Elk, Beaver, Durrance, Langford and Prospect Lakes are all well stocked with bass. St. Mary's Lake, on Salt Spring Island, has been called the second best bass lake in Canada.

Unlike his chief rival the trout, a bass will feed on almost anything when he is hungry, his hunger being greater than his caution.

The bass feeds on smaller fish, crayfish, larvae, flies, frogs and any rodent or lizard that has the misfortune to pass in frot on his jaws. This voracious appetite explains, in part, the multitude of lures sold for bass fishing.

POPULAR AND PRODUCTIVE

Plug fishing, with a short steel or glass rod and multiple-winding reel is the most popular style and usually the most productive. Basically the lures are designed to either tempt the bass or, if he is not hungry, to infuriate him into smashing into it.

For the angler who is willing to take a chance on loosing some tackle, fly rod fishing for small-mouth supplies unmatched thrills. Gaudy flies, popping minnows and imitation surface bugs fished as close to the shore as possible can produce strike after murderous strike from the black gamester.

ANYTHING GOES

If the fish is not taking conventional lures, bass can still be caught. Maybe he is dumb, maybe he is bad tempered or maybe he just does not care what he bites on. The fact remains that bass have been caught on baits ranging from cigarette butts, gum drops, bread crusts, pork rind and Life-Savers to bent tea spoons and bare hooks.

The bass is just as worthy on the dinner table as he is in the water. Filleted and scaled, then fried in butter, he is a gourmet's delight. The time spent preparing him for the pan is amply rewarded by his succulent flavor.

Beavers Moving Up In Coast League Race

Far back but dangerous, the revitalized Portland Beavers won their fifth straight Pacific Coast Baseball League game last night.

The Beavers, in third from last spot, played like league leaders as they pummelled Oakland Acorns 6-1 in Portland.

The actual P.C.L. pace-setters, Seattle Rainiers, pounded out four home runs in a free-hitting contest to swamp Los Angeles 8-3.

San Francisco won the first game of a three-game series from Sacramento 5-3 on the strength of a four-run rally in the fourth inning.

Charlie Sipple pitched San Diego to a 4-3 win over Hollywood. George Schmees' homer with two on in the sixth accounted for all Hollywood runs.

City Drivers To Compete In California

Too enthusiastic to quit over the lack of local facilities, three Victoria race car drivers are travelling to California for their races.

Dave Cooper, Bob Simpson and Roy Newton drove to Eureka, California, over the week-end to enter races at Crescent City track.

Would Warn Russia Of U.S. Unity

WASHINGTON (UP) — Chairman Richard B. Russell asked the MacArthur investigating committee today to warn Russia against "the fatal mistake of waging war" in belief that America is too divided to fight.

"This could result only in Russia's destruction," the Georgia Democrat said.

Russell is deeply concerned lest the "tensions" surrounding the long investigation into Far Eastern policy and Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal be regarded by the Kremlin as a sign of serious split among Americans.

For this reason he summoned the committee which completed its hearings Monday into special session today to seek unanimous endorsement of a "statement of facts" atuned not only to Russia, but to this nation's Allies also.

Pioneer Americans had to supply their own leather soles to the cobblers, who traveled from door to door making boots and shoes.

School Lunches Lead To Better Home Fare

TORONTO (CP) — The little lunches the youngsters eat at school are paving the way for better meals at home.

In a recent survey, nutritionally-balanced meals were served 300 school children. Their progress was compared with that of 300 children not served lunches.

At the end of two years, families of children being served lunches were buying better types of food. Other families bought less of these foods.

In dollars and cents it went:

Families of children served lunches were paying $1.09 a person more a week than they had been paying at the start of the survey. The others were paying 74 cents more than at the start.

Children eating the lunches were one-tenth of an inch taller than children who were not served lunches. There was a seven-tenths of a pound difference, too.

To make a pretty garnish, cut oranges or lemons into thin slices, notching the outside peel with a sharp knife or scissors.

IT'S TIME TO "DO DOWN"

With a few timely tips from Frances Barton

FRANCES BARTON
Consumer Service Dept.
General Foods, Limited.

A glance at the calendar will remind you that it's "preserving time" again and what a wonderful thrill of achievement there is in a shelf full of gleaming, tempting jams and jellies . . . canned fruits and vegetables . . . favorite relishes!

No woman need fear her ability to "do down" the marvellous galaxy of fruits and vegetables that are so plentiful in our country. It's really fun and so rewarding. Here are some suggestions to help you on your way to better, more enjoyable home preserving.

Planning Ahead—A Real Time-Saver

A few minutes of beforehand planning can save many minutes when your actual preserving process begins. For instance, I have found it a splendid idea to set out all the equipment I need for that particular day, most of which is found in the average homemaker's kitchen. Assemble all the necessary jelly glasses and jars and wash them thoroughly in warm, soapy water; rinse them well. Or do the same for pint and quart sealers. Make sure your pressure cooker is in good working condition if you are planning to do canning by this method. Gather all the utensils like wooden spoons, knives, colander, standard measuring cups, ladle, etc., in one spot in the kitchen.

Now comes the most important part, the actual purchasing of the fruits and vegetables. Select only those in perfectly fresh condition, avoiding all those that are bruised or damaged in any way. Use only those fruits that are firm and ripe. This is wise economy—for only the best results can possibly be achieved from the best quality fruits.

Govern the amount of fruits and vegetables you buy for preserving by the size of your family and their specific requirements. Jams and jellies for gift-giving should be considered at this time, and adequate amounts of your favorites made to cover this. But do take advantage of the fruits and vegetables when they are at the peak of their season—for it is then that they are the least expensive as well as the best and your home preserving is then a really worthwhile project.

More Successful Jam and Jelly-Making With Natural Fruit Pectin

In these modern times, such short cuts as using commercial fruit pectin makes home preserving a real joy. Either powdered or liquid fruit pectin produces such sparkling, flavorful jams and jellies you'll never want to go back to the tedious, long-boil method. With the short boil method made possible by the use of commercial pectin the actual boiling time for both jams and jellies is just 1 minute. Too, you use fruit at its peak of ripeness and goodness when the flavor is the fullest and best, and you get 50 per cent more jam and jelly from the same amount of fruit as with the old-fashioned method. For there's no need to concentrate the jam and jelly mixture to its right "jelling" consistency because you add the exact amount of pectin needed to produce the perfect "jam" or "jell." But remember this, it is important to follow exactly the instructions that accompany these commercial pectins, using the exact amounts of ingredients called for in each recipe. Also it should be remembered that the recipes for powdered and liquid pectin are not interchangeable. You'll find a magnificent variety of recipes in the booklets that accompany each bottle or package of commercial fruit pectin.

A Word About Pressure Cookers for Canning

Experiments have shown that the most scientific and safest method for home canning is the pressure cooker, which heats food to a temperature above the boiling point of water. This is necessary for there are four specific agents which produce food spoilage in canned foods: enzymes, moulds, yeasts and bacteria. For canning non-acid foods such as meat, fowl, fish and certain vegetables like peas, corn and beans, the pressure cooker is the only safe way. The best advise I can give you here is to follow carefully and completely the instructions that are outlined in your pressure cooker booklet. Then you can be sure of safe, successful canning.

Importance of Proper Sealing

Only jars, glasses and sealers in good condition should be used—discard all those that are chipped or cracked, etc. These, as previously mentioned, should be washed thoroughly in hot soapy water, rinsed, and allowed to drain. Before using, all glasses, jars and sealers should be sterilized in boiling water.

In home canning or preserving, a great deal of the responsibility for successful canning lies in the rubber jar rings. That is why with this small but important item it pays to buy rubber rings of good quality of a name you can depend on, for only these high quality rings have a "liveness" about them which makes possible the most complete seal. Always remember, too, that only new rubber rings should be used each time and these should be dipped quickly in boiling water before being adjusted onto the top of the sterilized jars. Small metal tongs are the best utensil for this. For home canning, sealers should be tested for their air-tightness before filling. This is easily accomplished by filling them partially full with water, sealing them, then allowing them to stand upside-down on a dry, clean cloth. If none of the water seeps out, you can be sure that the jars are air-tight.

In filling jam and jelly glasses, or if for jams and pickles you use jars that came with salad dressing or peanut butter, or olives, allow about ½-inch space at the top of the glass—this gives ample room to pour on the paraffin wax. And here I would like to say a few words about the use of paraffin wax in assuring a complete seal. Always use new wax, for old wax can cause spoilage. Be sure to heat the wax in a small container over hot water (or double boiler). Never over direct heat. A good suggestion is to use an old coffee pot, small size, which enables you to pour the wax very successfully through the pouring spout of the pot. Or an old coffee-can, with the rim bent to form a pouring lip is a good idea. Melted wax should be poured on in two layers for the best seal (a depth of about ⅛-inch in each layer) allowing wax to harden between pourings. After waxing, cover the glasses with firmly secured paper covers or use metal tops if you have them.

RECIPES TO TRY

Red Raspberry and Currant Jelly

4½ cups (2¼ lbs.) juice
6 cups (2 lbss. 10 ozs.) sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare juice: Crush thoroughly about 1½ quarts fully ripe currants. Add ½ cup water; bring to a boil. Crush thoroughly about 1½ quarts fully ripe raspberries. Combine fruits. Place fruits in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

To make the jelly: Measure juice into a large saucepan. Measure sugar into a bowl to be added later. Place pan containing juice over high heat. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, then boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Melt new wax and pour over jelly; cover. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

* * *

Strawberry Marmalade

4 cups (2¼ lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

To prepare fruit: Remove skins in quarters from 1 medium-sized orange and 1 medium-sized lemon. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of white part. With a sharp knife or scissors, slice remaining rind very fine. Add ½ cup water and ⅛ teaspoon baking soda; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice to undrained, cooked rind and simmer, covered, 20 minutes longer. Crush thoroughly about 1 quart fully ripe strawberries. Combine fruits and measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

To make the marmalade: Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Melt new wax and pour over marmalade; cover. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

* * *

Canned Tomatoes

Plunge into boiling water for ½ minute. Plunge quickly into cold water. Cut out stem ends, peel and quarter. Bring to a boil, stirring often. Pack hot in hot sterilized jars to within ½ inch of top. Add ½ teaspoon salt to pint jars, 1 teaspoon to quarts. Using new rubber rings adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath 35 minutes for pints or quarts. Or process in your pressure cooker following instructions in your cooker booklet.

Piccalilli

2 pounds onions
1 pound green peppers
3 pounds green tomatoes
3½ pounds cabbage
5 cups sugar
2 tablespoons white mustard seed
2 tablespoons celery seed
2 tablespoons salt
2 quarts vinegar

Peel onions; seed green peppers; put all vegetables through food chopper, using medium knife. Combine all ingredients. Cook until slightly thickened and vegetables are tender (about 20 minutes) stirring occasionally. Fill, boiling hot, into hot, sterilized jars. Seal immediately using new rubber rings always.

Helpful Hints in Jam and Jelly-Making

Q. Do all pectin jams and jellies set immediately?

A. Not all. Some are designed to set more slowly, so that all are at the proper, delicate "set" when they are to be used. If jellies from some fruits were to set at once, they would be hard and tough after a few weeks; some are balanced so that they require up to 10 days to set.

Q. What is a full, rolling boil?

A. A full, rolling boil is a bubbling, steaming boil that cannot be stirred down.

Q. What do I do if the heat is not strong enough even when turned highest?

A. Cover kettle closely while bringing the mixture to boil, and stir only occasionally. As soon as the mixture is boiling vigorously remove cover and proceed with the recipe.

Q. What should be done if less prepared fruit or juice is obtained than the recipe specifies?

A. For jams—fill up the last cup, or fraction of a cup, with water. If there is more than one cup lacking, prepare more fruit. For jellies, mix water with the pulp in the jelly bag and squeeze again. Or prepare more fruit.

Q. Can you substitute powdered fruit pectin in a recipe that calls for bottled fruit pectin or vice versa?

A. No. Each recipe is individually tested and does not allow for a substitution.

Q. Can paraffin wax be re-used?

A. It is advisable and best to use new wax each time: old wax often causes spoilage.

Q. What causes weeping jelly and is there a cure for it?

A. Separation of a small amount of syrup, known frequently as weeping, is normal and will not harm jellies and jams unless yeast and mould start growing on the seepage. To prevent excessive weeping, leave a ½ inch space at the top when filling the glass. Paraffin, cover tightly and store in a cool, dry place.

Q. How long will jams and jellies keep?

A. About a year. The flavor and color are retained for various lengths of time.

Q. How should jams and jellies be stored?

A. Jams and jellies should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place. If only a kitchen cupboard is available, place jars in the coolest possible place, and on a low shelf—warm air rises.

Canadian Jet Fighters May Serve In U.S.A.F.

OTTAWA (BUP)—Air Force officers said today that 11 Canadian jet fighter squadrons to be based overseas with the North Atlantic treaty organization may be integrated into a division of the United States Air Force.

They base their comment on a statement issued here Wednesday night by Defense Minister Brooke Claxton.

Following conferences with Air Marshall W. A. Curtis who returned Sunday from Paris where he discussed Canada's air contribution to N.A.T.O. with British, French and U.S. officials, Claxton said that one of the major problems confronting Canada was the best method of establishing supply lines for overseas squadrons.

"It appears probable," he said, "that when arrangements and facilities are complete to move R.C.A.F. squadrons to the continent, common use of U.S.A.F. supply lines and depots can be arranged."

R.C.A.F. officials said today that while no policy had been drawn up, "the integration of Canadian squadrons with an American air division is very likely."

They pointed out that all 11 Canadian squadrons contributed to N.A.T.O. probably would be equipped with American-designed Sabre jet fighters.

Claxton said Wednesday that Canada would have three of the F-86 Sabre jet squadrons in the United Kingdom by spring next year.

Electric Shock In Tram Proves Fatal

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—An interurban motorman died in hospital here Tuesday, 20 hours after he received an electric shock while operating the tram.

Jack David Reid, 59, of New Westminster, was reported to have accidentally touched a high-voltage current while in contact with his motor control switch. He continued on driving the tram, but later reported feeling ill and went to his home.

A physician was called who sent him to hospital, where he died some 12 hours later.

New Point Ellice Span Not Considered Likely

$652,000 Total Seems Too Much To City Public Works Committee

That trend of thought was apparent Tuesday afternoon as the city's public works committee received a report on the bridge from City Engineer Cyril Jones.

The committee took one look at figures for a new bridge submitted by Vancouver consulting engineer Major J. R. Grant and turned to Mr. Jones' report dealing primarily with rehabilitation of the existing span.

Maj. Grant gave the following breakdown of a $652,200 total: Increasing height of piers, $10,000; complete new superstructure, $600,000; removal of old superstructure, $30,000; payment to Dominion Bridge Co. for their share of designing, $6,000, and lighting system, $6,200.

In addition, there would be $100,000 required to construct approaches, it was pointed out.

The consulting engineer pointed out that removal of the water pipe on the bridge would reduce the dead weight, but such action still would not permit removal of the present 10 miles per hour speed limit and 14-ton load limit because there still would be undesirable vibration.

STRINGERS OVERSTRESSED

Mr. Jones reported the main trusses of the bridge appeared satisfactory, but the longitudinal stringers are highly overstressed.

Here are the suggestions he put forth as possible ways to rehabilitate the present bridge:

1. Lighten the load by replacing the present asphalt and lumber deck with an open mesh deck. This would cut the deck weight approximately in half, saving about 2,100 pounds per stringer, and would relieve weight on the cross beams by about six tons each.

2. Put in angular beams to relieve strain on trusses and use bigger rivets than those now used because they have undue stress on them.

Ald. Percy Scurrah asked the engineer to find the cost of replacing the decking and also of doing the same work and putting in new stringers.

Conucillor F. E. Norris said at the quarterly meeting of the Community Welfare Council at Spencerhouse there had been less and less work for the Friendly Help in the municipality as other welfaer agencies expanded their activities.

YOUTH MAKES DREAM REALITY

LONDON (Reuters) — A 15-year-old boy was charged in juvenile court today with making his dream come true.

He had climbed into a long-distance train at a suburban junction, started it up and driven it 50 yards along the track. Then he reversed it and brought it back.

His father said the boy dreamed of being a railroadman. The magistrate adjourned the case two weeks to think it over.

Vancouver Soldier Admits Boat Theft

Dennis Michael Kilpatrick, 19, a Vancouver soldier, pleaded guilty in city police court Wednesday to two charges of theft of copper wire from Capital Iron and Metals Ltd., and theft of a rowboat belonging to Michael Schleppe, 1290 Haultain Street.

Kilpatrick, who was registered at a Victoria hotel, was remanded by Magistrate H. C. Hall to June 29 for sentence, pending receipt of a juvenile officer's report.

According to police reports, Schleppe missed the rowboat Saturday, but located it Sunday near the B.C. Electric gas works. When he returned at high tide it was gone again.

On Monday police saw the boat at the gas works loaded with copper wire. A few hours later Kilpatrick was arrested when he arrived with a truck and started to load the wire, police said.

Arrest Six Men To Break Up Drug Ring

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A drug syndicate that is said to have peddled heroin and marijuana here and in nearby Crystal Beach, Ont., was smashed Tuesday with the arrest of six men, police said.

The round-up followed by a few hours Monday night's arrest of an 18-year-old youth and his 16-year-old girl friend, accused of possession of $1,500 worth of heroin.

SNOWED FOR SEVEN HOURS

Unseasonable Weather Strikes Prairie Areas

EDMONTON (CP)—A storm that dumped wet snow on southern Alberta Tuesday has moved into northwestern Saskatchewan, bringing rain to the North Battleford and Prince Albert areas, the weather bureau in Edmonton said today.

Unseasonable cold continued through Alberta, with frost reported in the foothills and other scattered points. Coldest spot was Banff, with a low of 25. Whitecourt, 110 miles northwest of Edmonton, had two degrees of frost. Calgary had an overnight low of 34, Edmonton 37.

The Lethbridge area reported more than three inches of snow and slush at some points Tuesday. In Calgary, it snowed for seven hours. The snow melted fast but up to one inch was on the ground at one time.

The late-June storm forced cancellation of Lethbridge's 60th anniversary stampede program. The exhibition grounds were turned into a quagmire.

Torrential week-end rains that preceded the snow filled reservoirs to capacity. The run-off built up the huge artificial lake behind the $7,000,000 St. Mary River irrigation dam south o Lethbridge to only 2.8 feet below the level of the uncompleted spillway.

Pellets Travel 3.7 Miles A Second

VANCOUVER (CP)—U.S. naval ordnance experts told here on Tuesday of metallic pellets being fired at velocities up to 3.1 miles a second.

This is roughly six or seven times the velocity of a high-speed rifle bullet. It is around 18 times the speed of sound.

CANADIANS SPEARHEAD DRIVE

Pat's Battle River, Then Run Into Chinese Shells

By BILL ROSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—The vast patrolling operation now under way northwest of the Imjin River was launched by the Princess Patricia's Infantry.

The Patricias emerged briefly from quasi-retirement to do the job, then returned to a rear area to complete the re-equipping necessary on their reunion with the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade group.

The Imjin crossing was the 28th British Commonwealth Brigade operation. It was expected to be opposed by the Chinese, the current was swift, and Brig. George Taylor had been promised a battalion of Canadians to swell his force.

The Patricias, as the freshest troops in the Canadian Brigade group and as old hands in the 28th, were made available.

It was their first river crossing, but there was nothing to it.

The current was strong and sturdy rowing was needed to take the rubber rafts across the 200-yard waterway.

The kick-off was at first light. Two hours later the operation was complete. The Patricias had a solid foothold across the Imjin from which patrolling forward could begin.

While U.S. army engineers were building the pontoon bridge behind them that would link the Canadians with the rest of U.N.-held Korea, the Chinese finally reacted.

They pummelled the area with the heaviest artillery and mortar concentrations the Patricias had experienced to that point. By then, however, the Canadians were well dug in, and the enemy fire claimed but one casualty.

After three days' holding the position and patrolling forward the Patricias were relieved and returned to the 25th Brigade.

In a masterpiece of organization, they conjured up that same evening as though by magic a mess party to "welcame the brigade to the battalion," as Capt. J. K. Vallely, the Roman Catholic Chaplain, expressed it.

Officers from brigade headquarters and other units of the formation were entertained to a buffet supper incredible in Korea, fortified with suitable liquid refreshment.

Two nights RSM. Les Grimes of Edmonton and the sergeants' mess entertained warrant officers and sergeants of the brigade to a beer fest which Brig. John M. Rockingham also attended.

Maj. Pat Tighe of Victoria is commanding the Patricias in the absence of Lt.-Col. James R. Stone on compassionate leave in Canada.

Saanich Jersey Cattle Clubbers Hear Dr. Smith

Dr. F. W. B. Smith of Vancouver, Dominion health of animals branch, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Saainch Jersey Cattle Club, held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Woodward, West Road, Saanich.

Dr. Smith stated that many animal diseases which are common in other countries do not exist in Canada. This is due to the methods of slaughter of infected animals, long been practised in Canada, he said.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1951

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

Almost any agency can find a fight on its hands if it describes the sweep of Canada from "Halifax to Vancouver." The publicity bureau here will get red in the face, probably profane in the tongue, and start sending out letters to any such erring agency explaining that the nation stretches from Newfoundland to Victoria, B.C. And please don't forget Victoria, B.C., in any future statements or maps of Canada.

Stott

The reaction isn't quite so violent against people in foreign parts who look upon Canada as a land of ice and snow, where the inhabitants wear fur caps and moccasins, and the chief activity is that of a red-coated Mountie on the trail after his man. That type we regard more in pity than in anger. Such ignorance.

WE SELDOM STOP to think how little we know about other countries ourselves. The point came up the other day when Sorab Godrej, a Parsee from Bombay, dropped into the office on a visit. The 33-year-old son of an industrial family, now on a world tour in which he is investigating sources of steel supply, asked:

"What do Canadians think about India?"

If you're honest enough, and if you've never been to the subcontinent, you'll admit they don't give it much thought at all.

India seems pretty incomprehensible to the average Canadian who has never visited the land. It's a country of preconceived impressions. Our own East Indian community in Victoria doesn't mingle a great deal with most of the citizens.

WE KNOW THE gentlemen in turbans who deliver wood. We know, or have read about, some of the highly successful men from that nation who have done well in the forest industries of British Columbia. We pat ourselves on our backs because the young people of Victoria High were democratic enough to appreciate the merits of a boy of East Indian origin and elect him president of the Students' Council a year or two ago.

But what do we know about India and Indians? We've read news reports about political developments there. We may have read the odd book or two about the people. In a vague way we're all for the Colombo Plan which would use some of our wealth to help the Indians to develop a better standard of living for themselves. And we've heard stories from R.C.A.F. boys of the country.

TO US, India is way out there, and we sweep our arm in a general gesture toward the Pacific. We don't seem to see the people as people. They're characters.

When we try to check up on our impressions, we find that we've been visualizing the country in terms of Rudyard Kipling, movie versions such as "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," Sabu the elephant boy, and that meaningless phrase "teeming millions." We've heard about the Hindu rope trick, we've heard about the tremendous illiteracy, which doesn't mean too much to us because we're not too familiar with illiteracy. And we've heard about tigers, pythons, the jungle, the Taj Mahal, the Aga Khan and his active son.

There are lots of books on the subcontinent, lots of social and economic studies, lots of treatises on the religious views of different sections of the population. But, if we think of it at all, we see the subcontinent in the mellow and opaque tones of the travelogue lecturer: "In-ja, land of mystery."

WHEN YOU'VE talked to people like Sorab Godrej, you get a slightly better perspective. Sorab Godrej is a person, not a character from a book, glamorized or degraded. He's man who loves his country as deeply as Canadians love theirs.

He'd like us to know more about India, what the young men and young women think, how they aspire to a better life, the big and small triumphs they encounter in life. He'd like us to know they are people, not just an unidentified red mark on the map.

Sorab Godrej and men like him, would like you to know that India stayed in the Commonwealth because it wants to be with friendly people—though keeping it in that status was difficult and there isn't much love lost on the fellow Commonwealth member that is South Africa. But how is the average Canadian, who can't dig up trans-Pacific boat fare, to know Sorab's people?

MAYBE THEY CAN'T. But it does seem that better understanding could be provided by closer mingling between our residents and citizens of East Indian extraction. Apart from the youngsters at high school, we're not making much of an effort in that direction.

Improved E. & N. Service Demanded

Island Group Protests To Wismer On Curtailment Plan Of Railroad

Demand for improved service on the E. & N. Railway was placed before Attorney-General Gordon Wismer today by a group headed by George E. Bonner, president of the Island Ratepayers' Association.

There was no immediate statement as to the discussion, but it was understood before the meeting that Mr. Bonner planned to take up the entire question of island rail service.

"Curtailment of the E. & N. is unthinkable," Mr. Bonner declared before the meeting. "The service should be expanded." He added that it was felt the service should be extended from Cowichan Lake to Port Alberni and from Cowichan Lake to Duncan.

Californian Heads Box Manufacturers

Mr. Minsky, who is associated with Acme Paper Box Co., Los Angeles, was vice-president last year. He succeeds George G. Mackie, of Grigsby Brothers, Portland, Ore.

"Our convention has been a great success," said Mr. Mackie. "We have been treated royally in Victoria."

A ladies' putting contest took place on the hotel grounds at 11 today. At 4 o'clock a reception was slated at Government House and convention dinner will be held at the hotel at 7.30 tonight. A salmon fishing trip to Brentwood will get under way at 7.30 Thursday morning and a children's swimming party is scheduled for 10 at Crystal Garden Thursday morning.

IN COURT

VICTORIA

Howard S. Minnie, 816 Mason Street, pleading guilty to two charges of failure to dim headlights and use of a car without a proper muffler, was fined $10 on each charge.

Victor T. E. Nelson, Ganges, Salt Spring Island, was fined $25 for operating a car June 8 beyond the restrictions of his driver's license.

Bagh Singh, 830 Queens Avenue, was fined $10 on each of three charges of operating a truck without a proper muffler, a rear vision mirror, a required automatic signalling device.

Sentence was suspended for Raymond L. Mitchell, found guilty of operating a car June 1 without a vehicle license. Defense claimed the car was not governed by the Motor Vehicle Act since it was not in running order.

SAANICH

Chester E. N. Lahmer pleaded guilty to dangerous driving Tuesday afternoon on Glanford Avenue, and was fined $50 and had his driver's license suspended for one year. Charge arose out of an accident in which his old-model sedan struck a tree and telephone pole, practically demolishing the car.

CARE OF FLOWER BASKETS WINS TOURISTS' PRAISE

Daily watering of the city's 550 flower baskets is paying off not only in a better display but in comments of tourists this year, parks department officials said today.

Parks Administrator W. H. Warren in his annual report, declared the baskets continued to cause widespread interest last year even though they were not quite up to their usual standard.

DAYLIGHT OR DARK

Parks Board Extends Ban On Lover's Lane

Car parking in Beacon Hill Park's Lovers' Lane, already prohibited at night, will be forbidden during the day also, if city parks department get their way, it was learned today.

The matter was referred to transportation committee for inclusion in the Streets, Traffic By-Law.

C. J. Bate, small parks foreman and acting administrator in the absence of the administrator, reported to committee that cars were left parked in the narrow, winding lane, between 12 noon and 1 in the afternoon.

"There could be an accident," he said.

"I agree with that, I think it's dangerous," Ald. William Pinfold, chairman.

The committee gave permission for the Canadian Scottish to hold a concert and show in the park August 29. They will take up a collection.

May Ask Grant For Inner Harbor

Possibility of obtaining an annual grant from the federal government to cover cost of keeping the Inner Harbor clear of driftwood will be explored by the city's public works committee's chairman, Ald. Dr. J. D. Hunter.

At the request of his committee Tuesday, he agreed to see the local department of transport agent, T. E. Morrison, and discuss the matter.

New Sterling Regulations Seen Likely To Boost Immigration Flow

Relaxation of sterling regulations by the British Government should encourage more British immigrants to come to Canada and will provide some relief for a large number of British families established in Victoria and elsewhere in B.C. since the end of Second World War, Victoria bank managers said today.

The banking men were commenting on the announcement of Hugh Gaitskell, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, late Tuesday that Canada and Britain have agreed upon the amount of sterling British immigrants may take to Canada.

Under the new regulations the present limit of £1,000 for four years which may be taken to Canada will be increased by £250 ($750) for each dependent member of the emigrant family, up to a limit of four dependents. A wife equalifies as a dependent.

The concession also allows immigrants to buy in Britain such things as tools of trade and these will be permitted to enter Canada duty free.

Many British families established in Victoria have been without capital to buy homes or furniture, it was learned. The new concessions should be of great help to them.

Several British families contacted by the Daily Times were especially enthused with the regulations which permits them to buy tools in Britain. "This will give us full value for our money," they said. "If the tools were bought in Canada we would suffer a loss because of exchange rates.

Fourth City By-Election This Year Is Possibility

If Ald. J. D. Hunter finally decides to run for mayor, it will necessitate the fourth by-election for Victoria in one year, it was learned today.

The city has already had two in less than six months, a situation believed unique in civic history. Ald. M. Aubrey Kent's announcement that he would seek the mayor's chair, will necessitate a third by-election.

Both Dr. Hunter and Ald. Kent will be midway in their aldermanic terms in December, hence the by-elections to fill their seats, should they both run for the mayoralty.

Five aldermanic seats come up for election each December in the normal course of events. Any by-elections will be held at the same time.

Traffic Islands Will Be Sodded

The city's public works committee bowed to the request of the parks committee Tuesday afternoon and will change plans for traffic islands at the entrance to the proposed new road into Beacon Hill Park so that they are grass-covered instead of concrete.

However, there will be a walking strip included so that islands can serve as safety zones for pedestrians. The islands are located where Douglas and Blanshard converge at the north end of the park.

Number Of Dogs Impounded Rises

Eighteen more dogs were impounded but 180 fewer cats destroyed in 1950 compared with 1949, according to Parks Administrator W. H. Warren's annual report to parks committee meeting today.

In 1950, 467 dogs were impounded; 335 destroyed, 13 sold and 119 redeemed. Last year 190 cats were destroyed. In 1949, 449 dogs were impounded, 337 destroyed, 15 sold and 97 redeemed. There were 370 cats destroyed in 1949.

Victorian Leads Korea Raid Unit

Lieut. T. W. Wall, son of C. F. Wall, 148 Eberts Street, serving aboard the Canadian destroyer Huron, led an armed boarding party which, captured a Communist junk in Korean waters, it was disclosed late Tuesday.

Former Victorian Is Lost In Wilds

After a major search in the Prince George area for Lorne Bishop, 14, former resident of Victoria, missing since Sunday when he left his Prince George home on a fishing trip, R.C.M.P. today held little hope for his safety.

The missing boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Bishop, and grandson of Arthur H. Bishop, Cordova Bay, a retired policeman and Victoria civil defence head during the Second World War.

SOFTBALL MOST POPULAR

Amateur Sport Teams Decrease In Past Year

Softball continues to be the most popular Victoria amateur sport for spectators and players, with soccer second and baseball third, Parks Administrator W. H. Warren told a parks commitee meeting today in his annual report.

Number of amateur sport teams dropped from 152 in 1949 to 121 in 1950, and number of players dropped from 1,631 to 2,190.

Last year the city's 10 supervised playgrounds had a total attendance of 56,629, which was an all-time high, compared with the 1949 figure of 52,706. Cost per child per day dropped from 10.6 cents in 1949 to 9.3 cents in 1950.

In five years the number of centres increased from four to 10 and attendance more than doubled.

Division of small parks, now in its second year, is operating smoothly, Mr. Warren said. He reported use of massed displays of polyantha roses in various parts of the city.

"They normally bloom continuously from June to December," he said. "Seven hundred roses were planted in beds in Stadacona Park, Blanshard Street and at Beacon Hill."

SHOPPING GUIDE

There'll Be 'Nuf For All Come July 1 Week-End

By PENNY SAVER

Bring on the holiday week-end anytime now, 'cause I've got more good eats planned than a pipefitter has connections!

Aye, yi yi, but the counters were filled to over loading this morning as I checked prices on honeydew melons, cherries, loganberries, cherries, raspberries, cherries, and more cherries.

How'd you guess I like cherries?

Cherries from the Okanagan are still fairly high at 50 cents a pound. Royal Annes, grown right here in our own stamping grounds, from 20 to 23 pennies a pound.

Strawberries are still selling reasonably at 2 baskets for 49c but their season is coming to a close. Now, in the running, are loganberries, 25 cents a basket, and their smaller sisters, raspberries, 30 pennies a basket.

Newcomers, and acting the part, are huge honey dew melons from California and, steady now, 75 cents each to buy. Believe it or not, they're selling fast!

Luscious, juicy Santa Rosa plums were 35 cents a pound this morning but 'tis thought they might be lower priced by the week-end, for they were 2 pennies less at the end of last week.

Put a pound of watermelon on the scale, and you may pay 11 or 9 pennies for it, depending where you shop.

On the tomato counter you'll find, magnificent sub-acid tomatoes selling at 35 cents the pound, No. 1 tomatoes, same price, and smaller ones, 2 pounds for 49 cents.

Ah! There's nothing quite like fresh green peas to brighten a dinner dish. On the counters they're available at 2 pounds for 49 cents . . . beets are selling at 10 pennies a pound . . . green peppers, 34 cents a pound, white turnips same price, and last but not least, our old friend asparagus at 31 cents a fine pound.

MARY HAWORTH

Woman, Trying To Preserve Marriage, Loathes Husband's Embrace, But Tolerates Him

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I write because it may ease my own suffering if my letter helps someone else. I am trying to keep my marriage together, and going to pieces in the process. John and I shouldn't have married; and if he hadn't rushed me, I might never have married. We've had 20 hectic years together; and I've done my best to give our children a sense of security; but I am beginning to wonder if I achieved even that. And this doubt of my worth as a mother is a great blow to me.

Haworth

John has contributed nothing to the rearing of the children. He idolized me, wanted only me, and found the children a hindrance to two-some companionship. Eventually I had to face horrible scenes to give the children more time, as I began to see their need of more devotion than they were receiving. I was determined to give them all they deserved; but I realize now that my conscientious efforts never dispelled their feeling of being unwelcome.

WANTS A RECESS

I've stopped loving John and I loathe his embraces, although I try to please him for the sake of peace (of sorts) in our home; but in general I flounder in complete inability to meet the situation in any way. I feel I should get away from the children for their own sake, but I don't think I could exist without them, unless I could turn them over to a loving, capable substitute mother; and I don't know of any. We went away together last summer and returned in good health—mentally and physically fortified again. I am suffering this year more than I did last, and the children sense it and are deeply affected by it.

I am going away with the children as soon as school is out; and we shall have to earn our way, for John will not support us in these conditions. Can you suggest some place to go, where we could all be employed and happy? We get along with people and make friends wherever we go, except at home. John takes the spotlight in our small town. Our three children are as fine as they come, and will accept any change for a few weeks of uninterrupted happiness. I may even find courage to get a divorce soon. Does it seem the thing to do?—V.S.

MAN'S DEPENDENCY HAS VALUE FOR HER

Dear V.S.: Your emotional disposition is that of a person who compulsively fears condemnation and rejection on every hand; and who unconsciously caters to everyone else as "authority" in matters affecting you. This attitude of being destitute of any personal merit or inherent rights probably accounts for your marrying John and staying with him.

The capacity to love others begins with substantial self-regard, which incorporates freedom from grasping self-concern—a truism reflected in the great commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Unfortunately for your family life, you and John aren't yet emotionally qualified to love in terms of sharing a real sense of well being with others, or in generous response to a beloved's needs.—M.H.

Students Embroider Work For Queen

BOOKHAM, Surrey, England (CP) — The Queen and Queen Mother Mary are valued patrons at the local school of stitchery and lace. Both have commissioned the school to do work for them.

When choosing a fabric for a home dressmaking project it is usually wiser to select your pattern first. Sewing centre experts say that more dressmaking failures are caused by an unfortunate combination of pattern and fabric than for any other reason.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Teenagers Can Conquer Blackheads And Pimples

Blackheads and pimples are the sources of greatest worry to teenage girls and boys. Most young people of this age are troubled to some extent with these skin blemishes but the idea of taking them for granted is wrong. You can do something about them. As a matter of fact, if you neglect them now you may lay the way for permanent skin trouble later on.

At your age the chemistry of the body is changing and the little oil glands are very active. Extreme cleanliness is absolutely a "must." Wash your face with soap and water several times a day. Use a complexion brush—boys, too.

Many a case of pimples and bumps started from trying to squeeze blackheads out, from handling the skin. Never put your hands on your face unless they are absolutely clean and then only when necessary. Powderpuffs and washcloths which are not very clean are often offenders and may start infection.

It is a good idea for girls to use cotton pads when applying powder and use them only once. Never use the same washcloth or towel on your body and on your face. Keep your face towels and cloths separate from the others. If your skin is dry (this is unusual during teenage years) use a cream soap for washing the face and neck.

Blackheads are caused by the clogging of the pores with dust and dirt. These become mixed with the oil and stop up the pores. Therefore you can see that you should be careful about keeping the pores clean with extra washing. If you have pimples use a medicated cream but do not squeeze them and thus spread the infection. Medicated and drying astringents are sometimes helpful when the skin is very oily.

Some of your skin trouble no doubt comes from eating too many of the rich, highly concentrated foods. Eat plenty of food but mostly those which build health and therefore pretty, or handsome, skins.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 58, "Popularity" planned for teenagers send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

STRAWBERRY JAM

Four cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit, 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar, ½ bottle liquid pectin.

To prepare fruit—Crush completely, one layer at a time, about 2 quarts fully ripe berries. (If desired, sieve half of pulp.) Measure 4 cups pulp nto large saucepan.

To make jam—Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for five minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

Exchange Teachers Honored

Plans were made to meet new teachers who will arrive in August from Scotland and England. It was announced that Miss Ulah Jacobson will soon go on exchange to Scotlaind and Miss Marnie Williams to Newcastle, England.

Victoria Teacher's Wife Enjoys Life In Scotland

AIRDRIE, Scotland (CP)—Mrs. Norris Harwood of Victoria, has been living here for nine months with her husband, an exchange teacher at Coatbridge secondary school, where her 13-year-old son is a pupil.

Not even the intricacies of housekeeping with ration books have marred the happiness of this Canadian family in Scotland.

When the school term ends, Mr. and Mrs. Harwood plan to make an extensive tour of England before sailing for home in August. During the Easter holidays they spent two weeks on the continent and visited Paris, Nice and towns in Italy.

Mrs. Harwood speaks highly of the hospitality she and her family have been shown in Scotland. "We have been entertained in many different homes and have thoroughly enjoyed ourselves," she said.

One of the many things she admires about Scottish women is the way they manage to vary their meals on rationed foods. She finds food and clothing much cheaper in Scotland than in Canada, but thinks that the proportionately higher wages in the Dominion make the cost of living about equal in both countries.

A nurse befoe her marriage, Mrs. Harwood is a native of Bristol, England, but was taken as a baby to Canada when her parents emigrated.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

For Children—A sum of $25 was voted toward a fund to enable children to attend summer camp when the Opti-Mrs Club met recently. Mrs. F. Green presided. Mrs. E. Knowlton, clothing convener, was presented with $25 for aid to unfortunate families. Refreshments were served by hostess Mrs. R. Godtel.

August Picnic—Final arrangements for picnic Aug. 10 at Mount Douglas Park were made at last meeting of Victoria Women's Institute. Buses for the picnic will leave the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot at 11.15. Further details of conference in September may be had at G 3583.

Hawaiian Movie—Technicolor scenes of Hawaii, loaned by George Paulin, were shown at recent meeting of Victoria Lions' Auxiliary. Harold B. Whitfield, national employment service, presented the film. During the meeting Mrs. V. Thackeray welcomed members of the newly-formed Esquimalt Lions' Club. It was reported by Mrs. Ethel Holt that 42 donations were given to a recent garden party at nursing home and that knitting and sewing had been turned over to children's welfare.

Rose Tea — A sum of $50 was realized at recent Ex-Service Women's Branch, No. 182, B.E.S.L. tea given in Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Company. Miss D. Hooper, past president, was convenor and funds will aid charity work. Mrs. P. Newman, president, welcomed guests; tea was convened by Miss Hooper; Mrs. G. A. Jennings and Mrs. R. Ackemann were in charge of tickets and Miss I. Mumford, home cooking.

Committee Meets — Members of the committee, View Royal Scout Group, met at the home of Mrs. M. Roper with B. Law in the chair. Report given by J. H. BEDTIME STORY

By Thornton Burgess

But often other folks has pained.
—Old Mother Nature.

Whew! What a splash that was when the big aspen tree that had been growing beside the pond of Paddy the Beaver fell into it just at dusk one evening. Lightfoot the deer, who had been drinking on the other side of the little pond, bounded away with a startled snort. He didn't run far for it is not his way to run far when frightened. He stops to turn and look back to see what has startled him.

In the water lay the top of the big aspen tree the fall of which had frightened him so. He stared at it. "Now what was the matter with that tree?" he asked himself. "What made it fall? There isn't any wind, so it was not blown over. Why did it fall?"

"You tell me," exclaimed great big Buster Bear, who had been coming down the path for his evening drink and bath. "I was looking right at it when it fell. There wasn't as much as a single breeze anywhere around to blow it over."

NO EXPLANATION

"Look at what?" growled Buster Bear.

"There is someone out there in the water in the top of that tree. Who do you suppose it can be?" cried Lightfoot.

"Don't ask me. How should I know. Whoever it is they must be wet," replied Buster Bear.

Slowly Lightfoot moved down the path ahead of Buster Bear. He took care to be far enough ahead. His eyes were fixed on that fallen tree with the top in the water. Only two or three ripples were now making silvery lines on the surface of the pond. It was getting dark. Lightfoot walked right down to the edge of the water. He stood with his front feet in the water. Someone was whining and grunting and semed to be struggling in the water among the top branches of the fallen tree. Then someone pulled himself up and began to climb along the trunk of the fallen tree.

"Prickly Porky!" cried Lightfoot.

DIDN'T TRUST BEAR

Lightfoot jumped aside. He didn't trust Buster Bear. He didn't mind Buster at a distance, but he was afraid to be within reach of Buster's great claws. "He must have been in the tree when it fell. There he is climbing along the trunk now," replied Lightfoot.

"Listen to him," growled Buster Bear. "He sounds as if he didn't like his bath."

He really did sound so. He was chattering and whining and scolding.

PLEADS GUILTY

Octave James Deyotte, Tod Inlet, pleaded guilty in Central Saanich police court to a charge of careless driving, and was fined $35 by Magistrate A. I. Thomas. Ronald Paul was remanded to July 3 after pleading guilty to not having a driver's license, and "not guilty" to a charge of careless driving.

How Never To Be Tired

Contrary to what most people believe, there's no such thing as chronic fatigue due to overwork. There's energy enough in the weakest of us to keep us going at top speed for a lifetime—if we learn to set it free.

In July Reader's Digest, Marie Beynon Ray tells the secret of busy, successful people who never seem to get tired. Read this helpful condensation from her popular book.

Learn how things you don't do can actually make you tired. Find out how getting relaxation—instead of rest—can help you feel better, get more done.

VICTORIAN SPRING

by Cecil Maiden

CXXI

Back in the other bedroom, Caroline waited until her mother was out of earshot, then went over to the door and stood with her back to it, looking across the bed at Amelia. The time had come for her to speak, now.

"Amelia?"

Amelia was kneeling on the carpet, busy with labels. She was already in the grey dress she would wear for sailing. There was something about the tone of Caroline's voice that made her look up with curiosity. "What it is?" she asked.

"Will you do something for me, Amelia?"

"Why . . . of course I will, if there's time."

"I haven't told either Papa or Mama. I haven't told anybody about this. I only made my mind up last night."

Amelia sat back. Something important was to be told her, for Caroline was standing there with that curious, vibrant stillness which she alone seemed able to achieve. And just as quick movement or restlessness might in other people betray excitement, so did this strange composure of Caroline's reveal a great intensity of feeling.

Amelia watched her half-sister with a touch of sadness. How lovely Caroline looked this morning! She was wearing a new black dress — Papa had been generous this time. It was a dress with deep braid around the full, single circle of the crinoline. She wore a scarlet velvet ribbon round her throat, and another on her hair. Amelia saw that she had on, too, the carved jet bracelet that Grandmother Murray had left her. And how well it looked on her.

"When Zeke comes up for your portmanteau, Amelia, I want you to give him mine, too."

"Your portmanteau, Caroline? "But why—?"

"I'm going away."

"Not — not without telling them?"

"It wouldn't do any good to tell them. They'd never understand. And even if they understood, they'd never agree."

"No."

For a moment Caroline had nothing to add to the simple negative, then she walked very slowly across the room, and stood with one arm up against the heavy curtain, looking out of the window.

She began to speak without looking around, and there was a dull, almost imperceptible tremble in her voice.

"I don't expect I'll ever come back, Amelia. I'm going down to San Francisco in the 'Sierra Madre,' leaving from Esquimalt this afternoon. An hour before you sail. I know how terribly quick this must seem . . . but despite the times we've fought and quarreled, it had better be you I should tell."

"Caroline!"

"I may go to New York, too. I've been trying to get away from home for years. I've tried many times you don't even know about. I thought last year I could have gone away with Jervis Braid. After that failed, I tried —well, it doesn't matter now what I tried. But I'm going. And I'm glad I'm going."

"What about Mama?"

Caroline turned round from the window.

"I'm tired of Mama. Tired of her headaches and her heart attacks and her silly fears. Tired of her stupid, empty, aimless life!"

"You don't realize . . ."

The girl in the black dress brushed aside all comment. "I've never had enough money to go alone. So I'm going with a man who'll get me on the stage, Amelia."

"Who?"

"Mortimer Dukes."

Amelia came forward again, mechanically tied the last label on the portmanteau, and locked it.

"Are you in love with him?"

"He has a great deal of money. He knows people who can do very well for me in the theatres; people with a considerable amount of influence."

"I asked if you were in love with him."

Caroline smiled. She did not say anything. And there was something about the smile that made Amelia sick at heart. She rose to her feet. It wouldn't do any good talking to Caroline. Long experience had taught her that. Not even if she talked for days. And instead of days there were only a few short hours left now.

Murder Charge Reduced By Jury

NELSON (CP)—Leo Meiorin, 17, has been acquitted of murder but found guilty of manslaughter in the Nov. 29 axe slaying of his 15-year-old sweetheart, June Bradshaw, in her Trail home.

The jury deliberated three hours and 20 minutes.

Meiorin was remanded for sentence until the end of the assizes by Mr. Justice Whittaker.

Defense counsel based its case on testimony the boy was afflicted with migraine and had "blacked out" the night he visited her. The girl was found at the foot of the cellar steps, her head split by an axe.

FINED, KING TO ABDICATE

Irish Tinker Royalty Feels Hurt

LOUGHREA, Republic Ireland (AP) — Larry Ward—hereditary "king" of Ireland's wandering tinkers—has decided to abdicate. Too many "undesirables," he says, are lowering the tone of Erin's ancient Gypsy clan.

The monarch, 26, made the doleful announcement Wednesday in a Loughdea courtroom where the judge had just found him guilty of drunken and unkingly conduct in a public street.

"Some undesirables have joined the clan and, as a result, I no longer wish to wear the crown," Ward announced. Furthermore, he said, he's going to leave Ireland.

The judge appeared little moved: he said:

"I cannot comment on whether or not the king should migrate, but I will fine him 10 shillings and six pence."

King Larry said he will nominate a successor before he leaves Ireland. The wards have been kings of the Irish tinkers for many generations, getting their food, clothing and other needs from thousands of subjects." In return, they handed down judgment on delicate legal matters like feuds and horse-trading deals.

Some tinkers—especially those who battled the English during Ireland's struggle for independence after the First World War —were a bit hurt by one aspect of the local abdication crisis. Larry said he plans to join the British Army.

TEA FROM A TEA BAG!

But Our Coffee Will Measure Up

Albert Waterhouse, flew all the way from Hawaii, motored 12,000 miles around the United States, arrived in Victoria, Tuesday, only to find his first day marred by a tea bag!

Of course he took it all in good spirit, along with the ribbing of his travelling companions, Mrs. Waterhouse, their daughter, Mrs. Waterhouse, also of Hawaii, and a friend, Mrs. Harry Cobb of San Francisco. Still . . .

It was the shock of my life. It's sacrilege—to make tea with a tea bag. And your coffee is quite good. It's just like the United States."

However, Mr. Waterhouse admitted this was the first Canadian city they have visited on their tour. With relatives here and an old acquaintance with Victoria, they would not miss it for anything, he said.

The party followed spring wherever they went, leaving San Francisco June 26. They expect to return there by July 5.

"We flew from Hawaii to San Francisco, picked up a car there and touched every state in the union but three," said Mr. Waterhouse, a retired manufacturer's agent.

They spent two weeks in New York where they took in several plays but found the rehabilitation of Williamsburg, Virginia, the most impressive of their journey.

"It is the cradle of America and something every American child should see," said Mrs. Waterhouse.

The party will be in the city for five days.

Australian States Hit Ban On Reds

SYDNEY (AP) — Two state governments refused today to concede the right of the Australian Commonwealth to outlaw the Communist Party. The power to do so now must be sought in a referendum, probably in October.

The acting premier of Queensland's Labor Government, Vincent C. Gair, sent a telegram to Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies saying that the Queensland government considered the principles involved to be of such importance that the matter should go to a vote of the people.

The government of New South Wales also decided that it would refuse to delegate the power to the federal government.

The Australian High Court ruled last March that an act of the federal parliament outlawing the Communist Party was outside the power of the Commonwealth but within the power of individual states.

Another New B-A Refinery goes "on stream" to bring more "TOP RATED" 88 & 98 gasoline

Edmonton is the latest city to see a new B-A refinery go "on stream." The huge new catalytic cracking and catalytic polymerization units now are working at full capacity to produce B-A 88 and 98 gasolines. Today these two great Canadian gasolines are refined and processed from Alberta's rich "on the spot" crude oils.

With this newest development in its all-over expansion program now in operation, B-A can promise a more plentiful supply of economical and peak performance gasolines. Good news indeed for Canada's motorists, for thousands of Canadians do rate B-A gasolines as "tops" in economy and performance. B-A 88 is gasoline economy with power excellence and B-A 98 is gasoline performance at its very peak.

Drive into a B-A service station for a new experience in gasoline economy and performance. Fill up with B-A 88 or 98 gasoline and you soon will learn why B-A is boosting and building for these two top-rated Canadian gasolines.

TOURIST GROUP CONCERNED

More Ferry Service Could Be Provided

By DAVID STOCK

There's a move afoot over in Bellingham, Wash., to interest the state government in a scheme to provide regular ferry service between that city and either Sidney or Victoria.

The plan has been taking shape gradually and one of the principal driving forces behind it is Bellingham's Mayor Jack Mulhern. He has already written Ald Frank Mulliner, requesting either "official" or "unofficial" backing from Victoria City Council. But so far, the local body has not discussed the matter.

There was plenty of discussion about ferry service, however, at a Tuesday afternoon meeting of the tourist trade group, Victoria Chamber of Commerce. Members, all of whom are closely associated with the visitor industry here, were not too pleased with present arrangements for transporting tourists—and their cars—to and from the island. More specifically, their complaint was that there just weren't enough boats in operation to bring all the travellers here who want to come, and that rates for transporting families and vehicles from the port of Seattle were proving prohibitive for many potential island vacationists.

WANTS STEVESTON FERRY

Talk of ferry service came up at the tourist meeting in a letter from the central executive of the Victoria Liberal Association, asking the chamber to endorse its request for a resumption of service between Sidney and the port of Steveston, on Lulu Island. From 1929 to 1949, the C.P.R.'s Motor Princess provided such a service. The service was cut following the fatal Noronic fire back east, which caused federal authorities to impose strict regulations demanding automatic fire sprinkling systems on all Canadian passenger vessels.

C.P.R., rather than going to the expense of bringing the Motor Princess up to specifications, abandoned the Sidney-Steveston run, with an explanation that it wasn't paying anyway.

The question of making the run pay now was considered by the chamber committee before deciding whether to back the request for resumption of service. It did finally, after Mrs. Gordon S. Wismer pointed out: "It's not up to us to worry about how it's to be done.

Other ferries are subsidized by the government. Why shouldn't this?"

MARINE HIGHWAY

Former chamber president Fred Hawes came to lend support to this argument, pointing out that if Victoria and Vancouver were connected by land, the government would be obliged to provide a highway. "Since we're separated by water," he said, "then obviously ferry service is the highway."

It was at least a new argument against the long-standing principal that subsidization of any kind is not a lasting nor business-like solution to a problem.

* * *

With respect to the proposed Bellingham-Island run, however, there is just a possibility the Washington State government might try the service with hope that the route might pay.

The state has already cut the necessary red tape to allow it to operate an international ferry run. It did that earlier this year prior to taking over operation of the Sidney-Anacortes run from Black Ball Ferry Line.

* * *

Started by the C.P.R. in 1923, service between Sidney and Bellingham was maintained by that company for three years and then was taken over by the American-owned Puget Sound Navigation Company, which ran ferries between the two centres from 1926 to 1929 and then switched to providing direct connection with the American town and Victoria during 1930, 1931, and 1932. It withdrew from the run in 1933.

While there is little difference in the length of the run between the island and Anacortes and the island and Bellingham, the former town has some advantage in being close to the big city of Seattle, through which most traffic flows—both coming and going. On the other hand, Bellingham has the advantage of being on the main coast highway.

Retailer Lists Bright Spots In Economy

By FORBES RHUDE

Some favorable factors in business prospects were reviewed recently by R. F. Chisholm, a director of the Canadian Retail Federation.

Mr. Chisholm, who is vice-president and general sales manager of Gordon Mackay and Co., Ltd., Toronto, with wide retail interests, listed some of them as follows:

"The defense spending program is definitely going ahead and will be reflected in business conditions to a greater extent in the fall.

"Production in most fields is at an all-time high. There is no serious shortage of soft goods or foods, and even in hard goods we are unlikely to be badly restricted in our sales for some time. Most goods will still be plentiful in the fall.

"The Canadian economy is unlikely to be hampered by price and wage controls, and the alternative devices adopted to fight inflation appear preferable in every way.

CONTROLLED INFLATION

"There is likely to be a further degree of inflation which, however ,will probably be reasonably controlled, provided that inflation is not too severe in the United States and United Kingdom.

"The highway building program, though costly, is expected to produce employment, mobility, tourists and general business activity.

"The credit restrictions will be tough, but actually, favor the sound independent retailer.

"Our various welfare measures, such as baby bonuses, are of help to the moderate and low-income groups on which we depend for retail business."

ALTA. OIL REPORT

$4,000,000 Oil Bill In Saskatchewan

The oil exploration bill in Saskatchewan is expected to rise to nearly $4,000,000 this year as a result of extensive farmouts of the Sohio Oil Company announced by Saskatchewan resources minister Brockelbank this week. Farming out of 3,300,000 acres of the 11,000,000 acres of Sohio's Crown holdings has brought four more rigs into the province and a fifth is expected by mid-July.

Biggest farmout is to Sohio's mother company, Standard Oil Company (Ohio). It involves 2,000,000 acres to the south of Moose Jaw. Standard is committed to drill ten wells, several in the next six months, including two deep tests by the end of 1951. The agreement includes 400,000 acres south of Rosetown for a total of 2,500,000 acres.

Socony Vacuum takes on 400,000 acres south of Regina and Moose Jaw, agrees to extensive geophysical work, slim hole drilling and a deep test well.

Three Texas groups including McCarty & Coleman, Alberta explorers, takes on 400,000 acres south of Swift Current with a similar commitment.

All phases of the oil industry in Alberta proceeded at a faster rate during the first four months of this year than during the corresponding period last year, according to figures released in the April issue of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board's monthly report.

Footage drilled during the first four months of 1951 amounted to 1,404,080 feet, against 1,020,640 feet for the same period last year; production amounted to 10,026,344 barrels against 7,772,540 barrels, and well completions totaled 311 against 245. Of the 1951 well completions, 233 were oil producers, against 174 new producers for the same period last year. A total of 119 rigs were operating last April, against 80 in April last year.

Number of well completions for April itself was down 19 from March and numbered 56, against 74 for April last year.

Mortgage Loans Up, Report Shows

OTTAWA (CP)—Mortgage loans approved by lending institutions in 1950 were one-third more than the provious year, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. said Tuesday in its annual review of mortgage lending.

The 1950 total was 76,000 loans amounting to $521,000,000. In 1949, there were 62,000 approved loans valued at $394,000,000.

GRAIN

Upturns on United States markets also aided the advance here.

Domestic shippers were buyers of both oats and barley, while barley also received some support credited to export accounts. However, export business was reported in this commodity.

Papers, Senior Metals Lead Continued Climb

MONTREAL (CP) — A slight firmness continued to make itself felt towards the close on the Montreal Stock Exchange today in a follow-through of Tuesday's trend. Trading was quiet, however.

Advances increased their lead over declines as the session progressed and variations of a point or more were recorded.

Papers and a revived senior metals list led the board into still higher ground. All industrial groups joined in the climb with utilities, carriers and banks feeling the least strength.

Leading the gainers were Canada Cement up 1 to 58, Canadian Celanese 1¼ to 57¼, International Paper 1 to 52½, Price Brothers 1¼ to 31¾ and Consolidated Smelters 1¼ to 140¼.

Dull Trading Noted

Following yesterday's recovery moved from Monday's sharp drop, prices firmed at the opening and turned higher at noon. Trading remained extremely dull, however, and volume was about 1,000,000 shares.

In industrials, papers, steels, agricultures, foods, banks, refining oils, liquors and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains. Most of the section stayed in a fractional price path.

Scant Enthusiasm

NEW YORK, (AP) — Quiet buying nudged the stock market a little higher today but there was scant enthusiasm for the rise.

Leaders with the best gains added a little more than $1 a share with a few pushing beyond the $2 level. There were losses in virtually every major section of the list, but these were held to a few cents.

Steels and motors showed the best activity, but the heaviest part of the rise was in the chemical section.

$7,000,000 PLANT OPENED BY B-A OIL

Premier Manning Officiates As Third Major Refinery In Expanding Edmonton Area Ready

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's booming oil and gas industry today marked another milestone when British American Oil Co. Ltd. officially opened its ultra-modern, $7,000,000 Edmonton refinery.

Premier E. C. Manning, who turned the first sod at the site in May, 1950, officially opened the plant. Top company, government and civic officials were among the several hundred guests at the opening.

Designed to handle 5,200 barrels—or 182,000 gallons—of crude oil daily, the refinery will supply northern Alberta and parts of Saskatchewan and British Columbia with petroleum products.

Embodied in the plant is Alberta's first catalytic cracking unit, which makes possible the production of high-octane gasoline. The company's only other "cat cracker," Canada's largest, is at Montreal.

DRAWS FROM REDWATER

The refinery, covering 160 acres and consuming enough electricity to serve a town of 3,000 population, draws almost all of its supplies from pipelines to the big Redwater field, about 30 miles northeast of Edmonton. It employs 150 persons.

The B-A plant is one of three major refineries in an expanding industrial area a few miles east of the city. Imperial Oil Ltd., first to establish a refinery here, now is installing a catalytic cracking unit. Nearby, McColl-Frontenac Oil Co. Ltd. is building a refinery with about the same capacity as the B-A plant.

6 MEMORIAMS

DANIELS—In ever loving memory of Mrs. Florence E. Daniels, who left us June 27, 1948.
Her thoughts were all so full of us,
She never could forget,
And so we think that where she is
She must be watching yet.
As angels keep their watch up there,
Please, God, just let her know
That we down here do not forget
We love and miss her so.
—Ever remembered by the family.

CORRECTION

So many people called about the mill fire—apparently a radio announcement (later corrected) mentioned our name. Unfortunately it was our neighbor across the fence. The name is very similar but the company is in no way connected and is under entirely different ownership. The resemblance in name is purely a coincidence. However it was mightily nice to get all those offers of help and we sincerely thank you one and all.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By TOMMY WALTERS

Friedrich Smetana's comic opera "The Bartered Bride" has been called "one great pageant of dance and song." The Czechs themselves have acclaimed it over a period of generations as the supreme musical expression of their nationalist feelings. In other countries it is the work by which Smetana is best known, although it is only the overture which is really familiar to concert-goers in Britain and North America. Presented this week as the "CBC Wednesday Night" feature, from Vancouver, "The Bartered Bride" is the production for which local talent was asked to audition several weeks back. The difficult radio-concert version directed by the Czech-Canadian, Nicholas Goldschmidt, will have an orchestra of 45, a mixed chorus of 30 and 10 soloists.

* * *

One of the difficulties in presenting this opera outside its native setting is that it suffers sadly in translation. Critics say it is never quite the same in other countries as in the original Czech version. Goldschmidt has paid particular attention to this problem in preparing the production. He managed to obtain permission to use, for the first time, a new translation recently completed by Marian Farquhar. Thus tonight's presentation will be a premiere so far as the words are concerned. Soon to be published, they were air-mailed from New York to Vancouver in time for rehearsals, then dictated by Goldschmidt to the entire cast and chorus. Production will be by Norman Campbell with John Avison musical adviser. Heard on CBR at 8 p.m.

* * *

Tonight's recitalist will be Albert Pratz, Toronto-born violinist. Home in Canada from New York for the summer, he is also heard Tuesday nights at 8.45 on Dominion network and he is concert master for Lucio Agostini's "Whispering Strings" on Sunday at 5 on CBR. For tonight's presentation he has chosen Brahm's "Sonata No. 2 in A Major," Paganini's "La Clochette" and the "Slavonic Dance No. 2 in E Minor" by Dvorak. On CBR at 7.30 p.m.

* * *

SCHOOL'S OUT TONIGHT for students of "Ivy College" on KOMO, and for Bing Crosby et al, on KIRO, who "fade" till fall. Both programs at 6.30. At 7 there is "Big Story" on KOMO. At 8.30 on CJVI, there's the opening of the new B.A. oil refinery at Edmonton. George Raft steps into character as the hard-boiled but sentimental "Rocky Jordan" in the first of a summer replacement series at 9 on KOMO. And at 9.30 "The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam," in a reading of the famous poem by J. Frank Willis on CBR.

Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

OAK BAY DUPLEX—5 ROOMS EACH
APPROX. $4,000 CASH

Built two years. Here is a wonderful opportunity for a person to obtain a home and live in style while someone else pays the monthly payments. The price asked is $16,500

And the monthly payments are only $90.

Now we have had one side leased for the owner at what is considered a modest rental for this choice area at $75 net per month which means that all the purchaser would have to find for his own rent is $15. There are few smarter duplexes near this price range and it follows the most up-to-date plan of an American builder who built a large number exactly like this one for his own rental investment. Absentee owner has left us sole agents. May we take you through the premises. Do not disturb the out-going tenant.

DOCTOR SAYS

By DR. E. P. JORDAN

"My feet just kill me, and when evening comes I'm so tired I just fall into bed." So starts a letter from Mrs. G. Thousands of others suffer with their feet in much the same way, and the worst of it is that it is almost always entirely unnecessary.

The feet take a lot of punishment during life. Just figure it this way: every time you take a step the ground hits the foot and the foot has to carry the entire weight of the body for a second or so. Multiply the number of steps by the pressure thrown on the foot each time and it is easy to see that the foot is a remarkable organ to stand this punishment as well as it does.

New Exhibition Opened

An exhibition, as arresting as it is unusual, was officially opened at the Arts Centre, Broughton Street, Tuesday night. The exhibitor is John Di Castri, Victoria-born architect, who recently completed two years' study at the University of Oklahoma, under the famous Bruce Goff.

Modernity is the keynote of the work shown, which consists of a series of non-objective compositions and a set of architectural designs for a "Civic Centre in Tulsa."

The latter were undertaken as a thesis while at the university. Large drawings present complete facilities for administrative, recreational and cultural activity. The Youth Centre, library, art gallery and aquarium buildings are especially interesting, not only in appeal of line and form, but also for functional efficiency.

The compositions, in mat water color, are exercises in the use of the elements of composition, and are contributary to the study and practise of architectural design.

SLAPSTICK ACT BY OLIVIER

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Laurence Olivier, famous as a Shakesperean actor, brought the house down Tuesday with a slapstick song-and-dance act at the Palladium. Sir Laurence was accompanied by his wife, Vivien Leigh, and Danny Kay at a midnight show in aid of a fund for children of the late Sid Fields, London comedian. The fund raised over $40,000.

HENRY E. STUBBINGS NEW PRESIDENT

Theatre Guild Reviews Successful Year

Highlighting the first annual meeting of the Victoria Theatre Guild, held at the Langham Court Theatre, Tuesday night, was the financial report presented by Mrs. Barbara Smythe, retiring treasurer.

The report, amplified by R. V. James, chairman of the finance committee, revealed that, since the fusion of the Victoria Players' Guild and the Victoria Little Theatre 10 months ago, half the existing mortgage had been retired, all old debts had been settled, and the organization would face the coming season with a small credit balance in the bank.

Regret was expressed at the retirement of Percy Richards as president. Henry E. Stubbins was elected president for the coming season. Bernard Gillie was elected vice-president by acclamation. Other officers and committee chairmen for 1951-52 are as follows:

T. W. Mayne, secretary; George Gardiner, treasurer; Audrey Johnson production; R. V. James, finance; Pat Fairweather, membership; Barbara Smythe, constitution; other members of the board of directors are Noel Cusack, Christine MacNab, Viviehne Chadwick and E. M. Johnson.

In the absence of Mr. Richards, the president's report was read by the retiring secretary, Leonard McCann.

A series of six major productions will be scheduled for next season, commencing the end of September.

It was announced that the Theatre Guild will enter a play in the Dominion Drama Festival, 1952, under the direction of Audrey Johnson.

Another important function will be the planned activity of the Guild "Studio", where inexperienced actors and directors will gain practise and receive a series of demonstration lectures from senior directors and technical personnel.

NOISY BETTY HUTTON MUTE

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Betty Hutton is speechless, her studio disclosed today. And she will be for several weeks.

Seems she was having trouble with nodes—knotty growths—on her vocal cords. So her doctor operated to remove them.

Calgary Girl Scores

TORONTO (CP)—Betty Jean Hagen, 20-year-old violinist from Calgary, has won the Pathe Marconi prize at the Thibauld international competition in Paris. The award was granted in a long competition against entries from many countries in Europe and from North America.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Bob Hope Has Praise For British Theatre Audiences

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Bob Hope returned home from his extensive tour of the U.S. and Europe last week, one of his children, a budding comedian, leaned out the window and said:

"Hey, mom, who's that strange man?"

There was more truth than humor in the youngster's remark. Hope does so much traveling that his family might have trouble remembering what he looks like.

I talked with Hope as he poised before a round of golf. In one of his rare moments of relaxation, he said his traveling's proved valuable.

"I really get a perspective on the movie business," he reported. "In the last three months, I have talked to about 500 theatre men and film distributors in all parts of the U.S. and Europe. I found out from them that the movie business is far from being dead.

THE MOVIE HABIT

"The habit of going to the movies is still too ingrained with the public. Of course, television might be able to get people out of the habit but I think the movies are holding their own.

"But Hollywood has to have a new attitude. We've got to go back to the old circus tactics and get out and raise a lot of hoopla. We've got to create exciting attractions. Every picture has to be a special. The 'program picture' is dead."

BRITISH WELCOME

The comedian was still enthusiastic about his reception in Britain, where he made appearances with the proceeds for charity.

"The English are the greatest audience in the world," he said. "They don't just sit there and wait to be entertained. When they come into the theatre, they're your friends from the start. It's just like entertaining in somebody's living room."

B.C.E. Concert At Park Tonight

Program for the first B.C.E. concert of the season, to be held at 8 tonight at Beacon Hill Park, was announced today.

March, Sousa's Triumphal, Boyer; selection, South Pacific, Rogers; ballet, Egyptien, Luigini; Fantasia on favorite opera themes, Tobani; characteristic: (a) The Boy and the Birds, Hager; (b) Down by the Old Mill Stream, Taylor; march meditation, The Spirit of Peace, Goldmann, deep harmony; Assisting artists: Miss Grace Adams, Arthur Stringer.

Young Men Needed

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Reeve H. E. Durant of Winchester, Warden of the United Counties, noted the United Counties Council has a record of 102 years' service. He told the recent meeting that there is a growing need for young men to offer themselves as candidates for civic office.

STEVE ALLEN

by Oswald Jacoby

The South player in the hand shown today was Harry Fishbein, winner of a dozen national championships and widely known also as one of the best practical players of the day. This was one time, however, when he wasn't so practical.

Certainly there was nothing wrong with his bid of four no-trump. This is a conventional bid, meaning "Partner—bid your best suit. We're safe at the level of five even if you have a very weak hand."

Where West dug up his double of four no-trump is one of the unsolved mysteries of the year. It was quite meaningless, for it was a cinch (or was it?) that the opponents wouldn't dream of staying in no-trump.

North will remain nameless in this account. He is a very good, experienced player — but somehow or other he missed the meaning of the four no-trump bid. He should have jumped to six spades on the theory that his hand should be good for that bid if a very weak hand would be good enough for five spades.

When North passed, Fishbein should have scented danger. He should have bid five diamonds, expecting North to go to five spades if he had long spades and short diamonds.

As it happened, however, Fishbein was positive that his partner understood the meaning of the bid of four no-trump. Fishbein didn't want to bid five diamonds because possibly five clubs was the best spot. Hence he redoubled—pleading (as he thought) for a takeout.

North remained deaf to the plea, and the defenders rattled off seven hearts and three clubs. They scored a mere matter of 4,000 points. If North had bid six spades, the profit would have been 1,430 points — so the full swing of this hand was 5,430 points.

The Reserved English

LONDON (CP) — Princess Margaret, a keen dancer, speaking at the reopening of a British folk-dance society, said she was delighted to see how "even the stubborn reserve" of the English people melts when they join in a folk dance.
